And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

MOTION TO PRINT IN LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL ADDRESSES OF HONORABLE A. MITCHELL PALMER, ATTORNEY GENERAL OF UNITED STATES, AND, HONORABLE WILLIAM C. SPROUL, GOVERNOR OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

Mr. LEIBY. Mr. President, I move that the remarks of the Attorney General of the United States and the Governor of this Commonwealth, made this evening in this Senate Chamber be printed in the Legislative Journal.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The addresses of Honorable A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney General of the United States, and Honorable William C. Sproul, Governor of the Commonwealth, were as follows:

ADDRESS OF HONORABLE A. MITCHELL PALMER, ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. President, Senators, ladies and gentlemen, my fellow-Pennsylvanians: I feel highly honored by the compliment which you have paid me in extending to me an invitation to appear before you this evening and I feel that I should be very ungenerous in my method of repaying that compliment if I attempted to inflict anything like a speech upon you. I am not here, of course, to make anything like an address. My coming to Harrisburg this evening is an incident of a trip to the Pennsylvania Bar Association, which I am to address tomorrow evening, and, of course, I could not pass through the capitol city without stopping to pay a little visit to my dear friend and old college chum, the great Governor of Pennsylvania. I am sure you will recognize that if so uncomprising a democrat as myself can say a kind thing about a Republican Governor of Pennsylvania at the very end of the first session of the legislature during his term, his record has been good. I have known for a great many years that Bill Sproul would some time be Governor of Pennsylvania, and I have been equally confident that when that time should come he would make a great Governor. The reason I knew that he would some day be Governor is because thirty years ago, when he and I occupied the same room in college, he confided to me, not his ambition, but the fact that he intended to be the Chief Executive of Pennsylvania; and I am quite sure from your experience with him that you have discovered that he has a rather uncanny way of carrying out his intentions. I knew also so long ago as that that he would make a good Governor, because I was training him for the job; and so I am glad, not as a partisan but as a Pennsylvanian and a citizen who loves our great State and always wishes it well, to say publicily, as I have said privately, that if we must have a Republican Governor in Pennsylvania, (and it seems as if we generally must), we could not possibly have a better by searching from Lake Erie to the Delaware than William C. Sproul.

I congratulate you, gentlemen, upon reaching the end of a very important session of the Pennsylvania Legislature. So far as I can gather from the desulatory reading of the head-lines in the newspapers, which is about all the information a man in my position in Washington, somewhat occupied with other affairs, has as to the activities in Harrisburg, you have done an exceedingly creditable job. You have followed the lead of the federal legislature in ratifying suggestions which the Congress has made for changes in our fundamental law, action on your part which does great credit to you and honor to the great State of Pennsylvania. Your labors here this year have been touched by the aftermath of the great war. When you come back to your next session it will be crowded with consideration of questions which grow out of the new conditions which the war has brought about in the world. There never was a time in history, certainly there was never a time in the life of the American Republic when there was greater opportunity for service to the people in executive places and legislative places than there is now, and as there will be during the next two years, when the great new problems which have arisen by reason of the changes in the world's conditions, which have followed the World's War which will have to be met and solved,—met with consideration for those new conditions and with a steady patriotic desire to make them apply so as to work out the happiness and well being of our great people. We have got to keep in mind, it seems to me, the lessons which the great war has taught whenever we come to touch legislation in State and Nation. We have got to remember why we went into the great war; what the American people hoped to achieve by going in; and how their hopes and aspirations have been affected by the new political and economical conditions which have followed the glorious victory of the American arms. We have got to remember first of all that we went into the war a satisfied and contented people, feeling confident that all who dwelt beneath the aegis of the Republic, every man woman and child between the two great oceans, whether he was citizen or alien would receive under our laws that share in the Commonwealth, that share in the common happiness, that share in the common prosperity, which the makers of the Republic intended every man should have. We have got to remember that the victory of American arms put the stamp of approval upon that satisfaction of the American people with their own government and renews that confidence in their own ability to give to every man, woman and child that which he should have and therefore we must, it seems to me make certain that every man understands that. There are many in America now who have not, for one reason or another, become Americanized. There are many who have come from European conditions, ignorantly misunderstanding the conditions which they meet with here. In Europe for generations, aye for centuries, government and tyranny have been synonimous, and many who have come from out those conditions to our shores feel that the same must be true here: and wtihout understanding what America means they have undertaken, in some cases, to use the same weapons to reform and change the government here which they seemed to believe was necessary to reform and change governments in Europe. Force has been applied in European countries to sweep autocrats from their thrones but force will never be an effective weapon to rob the people of their own in America. Revolution against a popular government is an anomoly, for revolutions, as European revolutions go, are intended to give the people power. In America the people have the power. Those who come here, failing to understand our institutions, failing to understand that here every idea, however radical, will receive fair consideration, and if and when it meets with approval of a majority of the people will become a part of our system of government. These who fail to understand these things and undertake to use force to accomplish the reforms which they desire will find that they will get no where by such methods. They may destroy a cabinet officer more or less, they may strike down great judges or men in high executive places, but if they do vigorous, corageous men will rise to take their places, and the government of the people will go on as before. It has seemed to me that we ought to agree in America now that those who will not become Americanized after a period of living under our institutions ought to go back into the conditions from which they came, but those who have really come here out of a desire to enjoy the blessings of the liberty which the fathers gave to us ought to be encouraged by every means within our power to become Americanized, in order that this great nation may grow the stronger by having the best of the blood of all the people of the world. There is another thing that we have got to remember which the war has taught us, gentlemen, and that is this; the world is smaller than it ever was before. When we consider the fact, which the war made plain, that two million men in arms may be transported across three thousand miles of sea, practically without loss of life, to be as strong on the other side as they could be here, when we recall that ships can travel from shore to shore of the Atlantic without ever appearing on the surface of the sea, when we realize that sixteen hours constitute a sufficient time for a human being to cross the Atlantic, we must agree that the world has indeed become small. Means of transportation and means of communication have made this world a little world. Why a new revolution in Russia tonight, an outbreak in northern Siberia today, the discovery of a new diamond mine on the west coast of Africa, the passage of a reform measure in the parliament of New Zealand today will be all matters of interest because read and known by civilized men everywhere at their breakfast tables tomorrow. These are conditions which the war has brought about, and the perfection of inventions which the war demanded have made more apparent to the people of the world they are conditions that we must consider whenever we undertake to legislate for State and Nation in the future, and yet there are men who refuse to see them. There are men who still argue for the old doctrine of aloofness from the rest of the world. There are men who say they subscribe to a spirit of nationalizism, which is nothing but a confession of ignorance of present world conditions. America is so close to Europe, so close to the Orient, that a war in the Balkan States, or an uprising in China, affects us and our interests as they never could before. In Washington's day, when he argued that we should attend to our own knitting, stay here at home and be careful not to mix in the affairs across the sea, London was four months away. Today London is nearer to Washington that Mt. Vernon was to the site of Washington when the father of his country lived there. We have got to remember those things and realize that our peace, our happiness, and our prosperity depend upon the peace, happiness and prosperity of the rest of the world, and we can no longer play the laggard's part, as we have entangled ourselves with European affairs by sending the greatest army the world has ever known to settle the greatest war in history. So we must mix in the world's affairs by sending the power of the American people for peace into every corner of the world. The things for which we fought when America went into the war were the things for which America has always fought, for liberty, for America and for peace and the greatest of these is peace, for peace means liberty for every one, peace means America forevermore. Peace means the bright noontide of that glorious day that was ushered in by the Master, when He blessed the weary world, "my peace I give unto you, my peace I leave with you." The sacrifice of our courageous sons on the Western Front will have been but reckless stage play, the glorious victory of American arms will prove but a hollow and unavailing triumph unless we Americans see to it that out of their sacrifice and out of that victory shall come a greater liberty, a better America and a surer peace. Let us as Americans consecrate ourselves to those causes, to make for us here a greater liberty, a greater America, to make for us and the world a surer peace, and once achieved that will be a service which will make our citizenship in this great Republic of the west not only our pride but our reward.

The PRESIDENT. On behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, I desire to express to the Attorney General of the United States its gratitude for the timely messages that he has brought to us and to tell him of the pride that we take in the honors that have been bestowed upon him, a native Pennsylvanian, at Washington.

Gentlemen of the Senate, this meeting would not be complete without hearing from our former colleague, His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth.

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR WILLIAM C. SPROUL.

GOVERNOR SPROUL. Mr. President, Attorney General, and gentlemen of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen: it seems very natural to stand right here. I did not come over tonight to make a speech, but I came over to hear a good one and I was not dissappointed. It has been a matter of great pride to me, who, I suppose, knows him as well as any man in the world could, to be here to see the honor that has been shown my old friend. We never lose an opportunity of getting together, but we do not talk politics nor trade over the lines. We took our political differences very much more seriously before we were able to vote than we do now, and I cannot think of anything finer than to have this Senate, with its preponderance of Republicans show this fine spirit of greeting to a man who has brought great honor to the State and who fills a great office, one of the greatest offices in the gift of the people of America at the present time, and fills it with infiinite credit to himself and to the organization which he represents and to the Commonwealth, of which he is so proud to be a citizen. We used to have a good many ambitions together, and, as Mitchell has said, neither one of us ever had any doubt but that we were going to occupy at some time some very distinguished places. We had not fully picked them out but I had ambition to see him Attorney General of the United States for a great many years, because I knew that that was really his concrete ambition. I am gratified, as I have said, more than I can tell you to see him there and to be able to bring him over here tonight to receive the greeting of this body.

I am glad to be here tonight to express my pride and satisfaction with the treatment which the administration has received from the Senate and from the Legislature as a whole. I have not a thing to complain about, I believe after considerable experience with the position which you, my old colleagues hold, that it is still the best job in this country. There is one thing I am very sure of, and I am not saying this because I have the last vote on things, or anything of that sort, but it is a whole lot easier to get along over here than it is in the far end of the building. After a lot of experience a fellow becomes kind of adroit at passing the buck, at least putting the thing over and blaming it on the joint lack of good sense or the good judgment, or whatever may be responsible for the failure of measures, or the dissappointment of friends. You are over there by yourself and all the light is turned on you and you have no one else to pass the thing to, and it is a difficult question. Not that I expect to dissappoint anybody, I am not holding out anything gloomy at all, but I want to say that if I cannot do all the things that my old friends have expected of me I do try to do the best that I can, not only for myself, and I count myself among you, but for the position that we hold. I am obsessed more than ever with a devotion to this old Commonwealth and a respect beyond expression, for the duties that have been given to us to perform. I have had your patience and your assistance and your co-operation in doing what I believe will make for all of us a good name in the political history of Pennsylvania, for I have a great faith in the accomplishments of this legislature, and I am firmly of the belief that when we get far enough away from the happenings of these past few months to get a proper perspective, that the action of the legislature of the Session of 1919 will stand out well up among the best records of any legislature which Pennsylvania has had in our time. In line with what the Attorney General has said tonight a thought has come very strongly to me today—that this is an historical day in Pennsylvania and in the country. Today through the peaceful action of our law making body, through the free expressed will of the people, through their accredited representatives, a measure has been passed which makes really a revolutionary change in the fundamental law of the Commonwealth; and so far as the State may affect it, in the fundamental law of the nation. As I have said, that has been done peacefully and in order and by the representatives of the people of the will of the people, as they believed it has been expressed.

In any other land on the face of the earth almost a change of that kind could only have been effected through force of arms, or through some revolutionary agitation of violence, but so far here in America we have in our Federal Constitution, in the Constitution of our State in our plan of government, the machinery to carry out the will of the people as they want it to be carried out; and my friends that is the only way reforms or changes, or revolutions may be brought about in America. It is a great tribute, the effectiveness of our form of government and our plan of doing things, that it has been done in this way, and I am glad on this day to have an opportunity to draw attention to this fact and to congratulate ourselves upon being able to accomplish such things in an orderly way and in accordance with our form of government. I thank you for the opportunity of being here tonight. I thank you for the courtesy shown to this great federal official and our friend and fellow citizen, and I thank you too for the kindness and courtesy which you have shown to me for more than twenty-two years.

The PRESIDENT. On behalf of the Senate I desire to express to the Governor of the Commonwealth our gratitude and appreciation for the uniform courtesy and kind treatment that we have received from the Executive Department in the approval of our bills and in numerous other ways. The Senate will now stand in recess and the Attorney General of the United States will meet the members of the Senate to the left of the rostrum.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. LEIBY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11:43 P. M., until Wednesday morning, June 25, 1919, at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, June 24, 1919.

The House met at 11:00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Robert S. Spangler) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. H. Feldmann, offered the following prayer:

O Thou benign Providence, we are here this morning because of Thy mercy and Thy grace. We would lift our hearts in gratitude to Thee that the light of another day is our privilege. Since last this House met, many have laid down their earthly garbs and pilgrimages, and ceased to be among the living. May our gratitude take a new form and give our hearts new desires, and since we cannot do anything for Thee, making Thee neither rich nor poor, grant that we may become humble instruments in Thy hands, to serve those around us, and to this end bless everything that shall be done this day, that men with an honest purpose and with clean consciences may think, speak, act and do in such a way that when the great judgment shall come they can answer to Thee for what they have said and what they have done without flinching and without fear. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. DEWEY, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. PALMER from the Committee on Education, reported as committed House Bill No. 1870 (Senate Bill No. 1120), entitled

An Act authorizing the purchasing or building of residences for principals teachers or janitors by school districts of the fourth class

Mr. JONES from the Committee on Counties and Townships, re-reported as amended House Bill No. 669, entitled

An Act to amend section two hundred and twelve of an act approved the fourteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred and forty) entitled "An Act concerning townships and revising amending and consolidating the law relating thereto"

BILL ON FIRST READING.

Mr. PALMER asked and received unanimous consent to have House Bill No. 1870 (Senate Bill No. 1120), read for the first time.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1870 (Senate Bill No. 1120), entitled

An Act authorizing the purchasing or building of residences for principals teachers or janitors by school districts of the fourth class

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. WILLIAMS from the Committee on Geological Survey, reported with a negative recommendation House Bill No. 1737 (Senate Bill No. 798), entitled

A Supplement to an act entitled "An Act authorizing and regulating the survey appraisal and patenting of lands in beds of navigable rivers or streams permitted by the Government of the United States to be abandoned and filled as no longer of use for ordinary purposes of navigation" approved the twenty-seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws six hundred sixty-five)

The SPEAKER. The Chair will inform the gentleman from Tioga that the bill just reported by him was reported last night, and is now on the second reading calendar.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would state for the benefit of the House that the Committee on Geological Survey met for the first time this morning, was called for organization, took up this bill and considered it, and ordered it to be reported out with a negative recommendation. This is the official Senate bill.

Mr. LEVIS. Mr. Speaker, in reference to this bill I wish to say that a number of the members of the Geological Survey Committee drew up a resolution which was signed by fifteen members of the committee, that this bill be reported out favorably. The bill was handed me, and I reported it out.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has a copy of the bill before him. The Chair was informed last evening that the original bill had been mislaid, and certified, upon the application of thirteen or fifteen members of the committee, that the copy was a correct copy of the original bill. The committee took charge of the bill and apparently reported the bill out with an affirmative recommendation, and it was read for the first time by unanimous consent.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: I wish to say that last night, during a very busy part of our session, a gentleman came to me and asked that I sign this paper in order to get a certain bill out of the committee to get it read the first time. I glanced at the bill and discovered it was the bill which is now in question. I said to him that the committee had that bill in charge and that we were going to have a meeting as soon as we could get together and report the bill out. I do not see how the gentleman could consistently say that the bill was lost when he was informed by myself that the Chairman of the committee then had the bill in his possession, and that we were going to have a meeting as soon as possible to take action on the bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair believes the best way out is to let the matter stand as it is, and the House can act as it sees fit on the bill when it is reached on second reading.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. CLEMENT asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Roberts on account of illness.

"Section 8 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed"

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: This bill that we are now voting upon is House Bill No. 43, known as the bill to raise the salaries of the judges of this Commonwealth. I wish to call your attention to the fact that this is an entirely new bill and is very different from the bill that we passed upon a few weeks ago. We ought not to vote upon this matter lightly, because it is a very important measure. You men will remember only a few weeks ago that we were led to believe that this bill was intended to help out the smaller counties or the county districts, as it only applied in its original form to the smaller counties. This bill has been amended in the Senate by adding all the rest of the judges of this Commonwealth, the judges of the Supreme Court and Superior Court, and it will add to the payroll of this State somewhere between $200,000 and $250,000 a year. There are a lot of inconsistencies in this bill that should not receive our support. The increases in many instances are abnormal, and under the provisions of this bill it will jump the salaries of the judges in a number of counties from $6,000 to $10,000 a year at one jump. I am not opposed to a reasonable raise. However, I think this is not the opportune time to raise the salaries of our judges, and I am strictly opposed to raising the salaries of any of the judges of this Commonwealth as much as $4,000 at once. There were a number of counties in this Commonwealth at the last census that had less than 90,000 population. Under the provisions of this bill in counties with a population of 100,000 to 500,000 they will receive $10,000 per year, which means an increase in those counties of from $6,000 to $10,000 a year. Another inconsistency in this bill is the fact that it raises the salaries of a number of the Common Pleas Court judges to within $1,000 of as much as the judges of the Superior Court receive. Gentlemen, the judges of the Superior Court should receive a good deal larger salary than the judges of the Common Pleas Courts, because of the position which they occupy. Gentlemen, I think it is unfair to our appellant courts to pay our Common Pleas Courts almost as large a salary as you pay to the judges of the higher courts. Another thing, gentlemen, I wish to call your attention to: I wish to ask you why, in the name of common sense, should a judge in a small county, who is the only judge in that county and who is now doing all the work that it is possible for a human judge to do, receive a smaller salary than a judge in a larger county, who has many associates and who is not doing any more work than the judge in the small county, and who is not any more competent or not any better judge. Why should he receive so much more in salary than the judge in the smaller county? It is an inconsistency; it is not just and it is not right. The only reason, my friends, that any judge living in a big city should receive more salary than a judge living in a smaller community is that he should receive as much more compensation as in necessary to pay for the added cost of living and not one single cent more. I believe you will agree with me on that. Now, gentlemen, we should stop and hesitate at this time, because, in a very few days, we are going back to our several constituencies and we are going to meet a lot of angry constituents. They will either be school teachers that are angry because we have not given them what they should have, or it is going to be the taxpayers whom we have taxed beyond what they are able to carry. Gentlemen, we are going to leave this session of the Legislature knowing that there is not enough money to pay the school teachers what they should have. We are going to leave here knowing that this State does not have enough money to meet its honest obligations. We are going to have to face people and tell them that we could not do this or could not do that because we did not have enough money to do it. Now, gentlemen, can we face these constituencies honestly? Can we make a reasonable explanation for the failure to do the things that we want to do and that we ought to do, if to-day we add to the payroll for the judges in this Commonwealth the tremendous sum that is going to be required to meet the additional salaries provided in this bill? Gentlemen, this is a new bill, written over in the Senate. It is not the bill we passed a few weeks ago. I think we should refuse to concur in the amendments of the Senate and let them, if they can, work out a bill that is fair and reasonable and not such a bill as this one that we are now called upon to support.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: My friend from Lawrence (Robert L. Wallace) has made some misstatements to you gentlemen, unintentionally, I know, because of the fact that he has not given this bill enough attention and has not given it the attention that has been given to it by the committee of this House and by the committee in the Senate and by a number of other officials interested in this Commonwealth, and by myself. Before this bill was presented in the House, I spent nearly two months in order to get a proper bill; in order that those judges who were not being paid sufficiently should have sufficient compensation in order that this bill might be put on an equitable and equal basis in compensating the judges of this Commonwealth. After going over it very carefully, after communicating with all the districts in this Commonwealth, and after ascertaining the amount of work they had to do, we prepared a re-apportionment for this Commonwealth such as is needed. I have been working over this bill from the beginning of the session until the present time. We have been in conference with the Senate committee, and they very carefully went over the statements, and I had a tabulated account of all the judges, and what they were doing, prepared that was submitted to the Governor, and we went over it with the Governor. This bill is the result of all that work and is not a new bill but an amended bill. I will tell you just where it is now: The bill as first presented to this House did provide for all the counties in the State excepting Allegheny and Philadelphia, for the Supreme and Superior Court judges. It provided that all districts containing one or more counties or counties outside of the first should receive $300 for expense money. We thought that fair because they have more expenses. It provided also that Dauphin County, which was trying Commonwealth cases, should receive $4,000. In those two instances, and those alone, has this bill been changed. The expense money for the extra judges has been taken away because Mr. Flynn, who presented a bill afterwards which has been approved by the Governor, took care of those expenses.

The Dauphin County judges have been reduced from four thousand to three thousand dollars for their extra work. Now, my friend says it is not fair that the Dauphin County judges should receive within one thousand dollars of what the judges of the Supreme and Superior courts receive. Let us see. The Acts of Assembly which my friend has voted for, seeing the importance that the Commonwealth cases should be tried in the Dauphin County courts, and as you know and as my friend from Lawrence (Mr. Robert L. Wallace) knows, those issues which are framed and tried in the Dauphin County courts are the greatest issues which any of the judges of this Commonweauth have to decide; and you know that by reason of the superiority of those judges in Dauphin County, very few of those cases ever get into the Supreme or Superior courts, and thereby this Commonwealth is saved money. Now why, with all these important cases, with all the Commonwealth cases, and especially now when this Commonwealth is taking over all the post roads, all the toll roads and the courts of Dauphin County have all that extra Commonwealth work to do, why should not they be paid more than the ordinary common pleas court judges that do not have the Commonwealth cases to try? On the other hand, he says another inconsistency is, why should not a single judge in a single county get more money than where there are two judges or more in one county. If you have an amount of work sufficient for two men to do and you employ two men, are you not going to pay those two men the same amount, each one of them the same amount, as you pay the one man who has only enough work for one man to do? What inconsistency is there about a thing of the kind? Where there is one judge in each county, he has one man's work to do. In those counties like Luzerne and Lackawanna, where they have four or five men, they have four or five men's work to do, and why not pay to each one the same amount for the work they do as you should pay a single man doing a single man's work? There is absolutely no inconsistency. It is on an equitable basis. Gentlemen, these amendments are correct, proper and equitable, and I ask you to vote "aye" on them.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, in order that I may not be accused of not familiarizing myself with this bill, I desire to here make the broad statement that I do not feel that this is the proper time to increase large salaries. At the present time there is a feeling abroad among the laboring men and the fellows of ready minds that the men who occupy high offices are getting all the plums and the other fellows are getting nothing. At this time of unrest I do not think that we should pass any bill increasing the large salaries of judges, because I feel that the judges, at the present time are making a living wage. I should like to see any man, a member of this House, rise in his place and tell me he has word from his judge that he will quit the bench if his salary is not increased. It appears to me, judging from the number of candidates who are running for the Supreme Court at the last election, that there is not a scarcity of men for the office. It does not appeal to me that it is an underpaid office or there would not be so many fellows running for the job. Every session I have been in this Legislature, I have been told that the funds of the Commonwealth are not sufficient to take care of the debts and of the expenditures. We have some—

The SPEAKER. The Chair must insist on order. The visitors in the hall will kindly keep quiet while the session is in progress. The Sergeants-at-Arms are instructed to maintain order in the rear of the hall, and upon the sides. The gentleman from Union will now proceed.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I feel that there are some requests and demands made upon this State at this time which should be given our honest and earnest attention. I feel that we ought to use all the money we possibly can for the purpose of building roads; for the purpose of giving our school teachers better pay; for the purpose of taking care of our old Civil War veterans, and many other just demands that ought to receive attention at our hands; but they will not because we do not have sufficient funds. Now, men if we try to increase the salary of these men who are highly-paid, we will deplete our treasury by just so much more, and rob the people who are really deserving and in need of State funds. I have looked over the Auditor General's report for 1917, and in that report I found that thirty-seven judges out of the one hundred nineteen judges in this State have been assigned to hold court in districts other than their own during the year, and those judges who have been assigned to other districts have been drawing various amounts of salary, one judge alone drawing $2,716 more than the regular salary that he would get within his own judicial district. These judges are not in dire need at this time. I feel, Mr. Speaker, that these other demands need our attention more than the judges. Let us let the judges alone for the present. They will continue in their jobs. None will resign. After this Bolshevism and this spirit of unrest has been passed over, we can then legislate on subjects of this character; but as long as this unrest is prevalent I do not think we are doing the right thing by increasing the salaries of the judges at this time.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, owing to the fact that the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. Alexander) has stated that I have misquoted this bill, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr Speaker, yes, sir.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lawrence (Mr. Wallace) will proceed.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware if it is not a fact that the title to this bill, as originally introduced, has been entirely supplied by another title?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, it has.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman further if it is not a fact that sections one and five have been cut out of the original bill entirely?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, it has not.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if it is not a fact that every word in his bill has been cut out and supplied by other words, excepting the old act which has been cited for amendment.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, it has not.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I would kindly ask the gentleman to tell the members of the House what other provision has been left in.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, section five, provided in the original, is absolutely the same as section five in the amended bill provides, with the exception of the expense money for the extra counties in judicial districts, and the four thousand dollars extra money for the Dauphin County court judges has been reduced to three thousand; that section five in this new bill is absolutely word for word with the old section as we had it passed in this House.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Yes, Mr. Speaker, but I would like to ask the gentleman if the section has not been entirely re-written by the Senate?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I suppose; it is not the same bill; not the same paper, and not the same print. In that way it has been rewritten, and in that way only.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, but it has been rewritten, has it not?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Reprinted, yes, we have a new print here.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. And the schedule of population in counties as the basis for fixing salaries has been changed in the Senate, has it not?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Absolutely not.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. What is your minimum population now?

Mr. ALEXANDER. 65,000, and that was the minimum in the bill as the bill passed this House.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. What is your next rate?

Mr. ALEXANDER. 100,000, and that is the same as in the bill when it passed the House.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. And the provision for one hundred to five hundred thousand?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Absolutely the same as it was when the bill passed the House before.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. But in all those instances, the salaries have been changed.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Absolutely not one penny, with the exception of the expense money in those districts which have more than one county. That has been reduced of the fact that the gentleman from Elk (Mr. Flynn) had a bill passed by this House, which was signed, giving those judges that extra compensation for expense money.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman further.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. Alexander) permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Is it not a fact that the judges of the Supreme Court and the Superior Court and of the counties of Allegheny and Philadelphia have been added to this bill by the Senate?

Mr. ALEXANDER. That is the principal amendment to this bill.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Is it not a fact that the argument was used on the passage of the bill by this House a few weeks ago that the bill should be passed to help out the country district judges?

Mr. ALEXANDER. It was, that was the argument a few weeks ago and that is the argument at the present time, because those judges who were doing the work in this Commonwealth were getting at that time four thousand dollars less than the Philadelphia and Allegheny County judges. These judges in these counties are doing as much work as the judges in Philadelphia County, and this bill brings them up to within two thousand dollars of the salary in Philadelphia County. The gentleman from Lawrence said that this bill raised the salaries in some instances from six to ten thousand dollars. That is absolutely false. There is not one judge in this bill whose salary is raised from six thousand to ten thousand dollars. I think if the gentleman will study this bill that he would not oppose it.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, just one word. We have been told that we have the greatest Governor in Pennsylvania that we have ever had. The reason of that is that he has secured good men to be at the head of his Departments. He has gathered around him some of the best men in Pennsylvania for his official family. Gentlemen, he had to pay money to get these men, he had to pay for their efficiency. We today in the State of Pennsylvania are looking for efficient men and I feel that the judges in the State ought to be efficient. We are willing to pay the price if we can get the men to do the work. We have raised the salary of the heads of every department in the State of Pennsylvania, and I do not think that there should be any objection to this small raise for the judges in the country districts. One of my friends down there said that every time the judgeship campaign comes around that there are lots of people flocking to run for this office. The reason for that is that you can get a second-rate lawyer to run for this office because of the salary. If you make the salary proper you can get the best lawyers in the State of Pennsylvania and the best men to run for these offices.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of 12:00 o'clock noon having arrived, the Chair lays before the House as a special order Senate Bill No. 1222, on third reading and final passage.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1899 (Senate Bill No. 1222), entitled

A Joint Resolution ratifying the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States extending the right of suffrage to women

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: This bill now before us for our consideration is a joint resolution ratifying the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States extending the right of suffrage to women. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I feel that we have already paved the way here by which this proposition should be submitted to the people. We have paved the way whereby the next session of the Legislature by passing the law to submit to the people of Pennsylvania the right to decide for themselves will provide a better and fairer way than this amendment will permit. This proposition which is now before you was decided by the State only four years ago and defeated by fifty-six thousand; and now the question of this legislation, as I said before, is to have Pennsylvania again refer to the people for their careful consideration the question of woman suffrage. Personally, as I stand before you gentlemen, I say to you in fairness that I am against equal suffrage, not because I do not believe that woman is able to express it, but I do question whether it will be to her interests. I say to you, while I feel that way, I want to be just as equal and fair to all the people of Pennsylvania, because each and every individual has the right to go to the ballot box and decide for himself whether or not the women of the State should have it. I say to you that if the majority of the people of the State decide that women should have the right to vote, they will have no better friend than I will be. But I feel, gentlemen, that this proposition having been defeated by fifty-six thousand nearly four years ago, only sixty per cent. of the people voting, that you throw too great a responsibility on your two hundred and seven members of this House to push down the throats of nearly nine million people this proposition; that the two hundred and seven men selected here are greater than the people. If we are to give the women the right to vote, let us do it by the State, and not by Federal amendment. When you ratify this Federal amendment, you abolish your State rights. I refer you to the Senator from Idaho when he said that State rights should be preserved. I think if we pass it we should pass it in a way that we could stand by and give the opportunity to the people of the State to preserve their rights. If you go along with this resolution, you take from the people of the State the right to solve this problem, and I think, gentlemen, above all things that the proposition of woman suffrage should be submitted to the people. If the people of the State should vote to permit it, I would say that I would vote for woman suffrage.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House: The subject under discussion has long passed the time of discussion; it has long passed comtemplation; it is not a goal that we are aiming to reach; it is not something in the distant horizon of time; it is here, inevitably and present; and, Mr. Speaker and members of this House, not only is it necessary as a moral right— and anything that is morally right must be eventually practically right, its application having a proper and correct premises, the conclusion of the woman suffrage agitation in this country is, as I said, before us here. Our national government, the Republican party, let it be said—and I am not blindly or bitterly a partisan—has touched the horizon of time by its action, and nationally the sun of equal suffrage dawned in our existence, beautiful and supreme and superb. (Applause).

Mr. Speaker and friends, this is not an idle subject, it is the most practical thing in present-day politics, and I am surprised to hear any member entering into any discussion in opposition to it. The women of the west by their vote and suffrage, my friends, as serious and as practical and as high as men in this great Commonwealth, elected the present President of this land in the last national contest; and it remains an absolute necessity for the great centers of manufacture, for the great centers that hold the destiny of this nation in their hands, that woman suffrage be ratified by every State in the Union; and while Pennsylvania is not the first to ratify it, it has never been last to challenge her enemies or to bid her friends welcome and proffer them the most comfortable chair at the fireside of her love and hospitality. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I hope, irrespective of any vote you have cast in the past on this subject, that today, in this House, Pennsylvania, the veritable empire, the great Keystone, the land that measures her wealth by twenty billion dollars, and that has give to the world sterling, proud, grand souls, that lived and died for us, and gave us equally great mothers to mother the sons who lived and died for us; I hope that here today we will unanimously pass this ratification in our hearts, in our souls, in our minds, as something morally just and essentially American. I thank you.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House: I realize that the stage has been set for the passage of this measure, and I realize that the actors have been picked to play their parts, and I rise to make my obeisance to the galaxy of women. As I said on the floor of this House when we had this question up before, I am opposed to placing a greater burden on the women of this country than that which they now bear. But I would be unjust to myself, I would be practicing deception to this galaxy of women, if I did not get up on this floor and say something against this measure. We from Allegheny County have traveled back and forth with one of the grandest women that God ever let grace his foot-stool. We have learned to love her tand to respect her in every particular; and now, that the time has come when this measure is going to pass, it would be unkind, it would be unjust, and it would not be becoming the great Commonwealth of Allegheny County to allow this measure to pass without some person saying something in her behalf.

Mr. Speaker, I, sir, one of the men from Allegheny County, rise for the sole and express purpose of advocating the cause of that dear old lady that has worked for year in and year out until today she has grown gracefully old in her work and we appreciate her every effort. As I said before, I will have deceived the women of this Commonwealth and I won't today. I opposed this bill when there was not one-tenth of one per cent. of the pressure brought to bear upon the members that has been brought to bear to pass this measure. Now, because we know that the stage is set for the passage of this amendment; because we know that it is going through with flying colors, I would be practicing deception to those women to go over and vote for this amendment simply because I know it is going through. I sincerely trust that the men who voted their honest conviction in this House on this measure will not try to deceive the women who have come here today, because they are not doing so; they are only deceiving themselves. The women themselves know as well as they do that the only thing in the world that they are changing their votes for is for the purpose of trying to come in under the banner that they expect the women to carry, and I would sooner take my chances in being absolutely honest with them than to practice deception in any particular. I for one, for these reasons, will vote against this measure.

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, as my legislative record shows, I have been a consistent opponent of woman suffrage. When the question was before us in the session of 1917 of submitting to the voters of the State the adoption of the amendment to the Constitution, I voted and I argued against it. Earlier in the present session, when the same question was before us, I argued and voted against it. Mr. Speaker, one of my reasons for so doing was that I considered woman suffrage a national question and not a local one. If there was any doubt, there is none now and never can be on the question of women voting in any particular state or to have the right of suffrage in one State any more than in all the States. If they have the right of suffrage in one state, if they are mentally qualified to vote, and I always maintained in the moments of my most intense opposition, that I thought they should have the right to vote on all questions and at all elections, instead of in some states only and only on some questions. In the past I felt that the majority of the women of the United States were opposed to it, but in view of the events of the last few months, I am convinced that the majority of the women are in favor of it, and I can see no reason for any longer withholding that right. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, while there still lingers in my mind some doubt by some on this course, chiefly on account of the activities of the national woman's party, nevertheless, prompted by an honest and sincere desire to truly represent the will of my constituents, I shall vote for this bill and I call upon those whose votes I may have influenced in the past to do likewise.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, we have said a lot relative to sedition and the breaking down of the Bolshevis movement in America. If there is one practical way of killing that movement in these United States, it is to give the American woman the right of suffrage.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, down in the corner of Pennsylvania—in the southeast corner—there is a little county known as Delaware. Unfortunately today Delaware County seems to be divided. I might say that I am glad, for one reason, and that is, that my friend and colleague, Mr. Heyburn, was able to cover himself with glory in the closing hours of this session in that wonderful speach delivered here. Delaware County is not opposed to woman suffrage. Delaware County believes that within that county there are enough of the noble women who can use the franchise by this act that will still keep Delaware County the strongest Republican county in Pennsylvania, and therefore, I am going to vote for this bill because I believe it is right and because I believe that the women of Pennsylvania ought to have it and that it is right for the women of the entire State and nation to have it. I believe that Mr. Dithrich's argument is the foundation of the whole proposition, namely: That it is a national question now, and that all the women of the United States should be given equal suffrage in every state. I trust we will all vote for it.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I want to say to you, coming from Delaware County, that Delaware County does not stand divided; it is united. It is the representation from Delaware County that stands divided. We stand today not divided in my county. My people stood for and had an opportunity to be represented here in my county. We stand here today to give these people their right and we are in favor of giving them the right of suffrage. We don't want to say that the State of Maryland or the State of Delaware or any other state forced us to accept these honors at the will of their state.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. ALBERT MILLAR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 1697 (Senate Bill No. 849), file folio 2997, on page 10 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading, postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from postponed calendar by Mr. ALBERT MILLAR,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1697 (Senate Bill No. 849), entitled

An Act regulating the collection of county taxes in counties containing over one thousand thirty-five thousand and less than two hundred thousand inhabitants creating the office of receiver of taxes in such counties and prescribing the powers and duties of said office

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COOK. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: This bill we are about to vote upon, in my mind, is a very vicious piece of legislation. It is indentical with the bill that was defeated by the House in the session of 1917. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill provides that a tax collector, where collecting the State and county tax, but who will not collect the school or road tax, shall be elected, and shall receive the sum of thirty-six hundred dollars a year. He will be privileged to appoint two deputies at fifteen hundred dollars each, and two clerks at twelve hundred dollars each, which in my mind is not too high if they do the work. But, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill, or this measure, is entirely unnecessary. In the first place, it would create an army of political workers with the result that in some counties the opposite party would have no show. But one of the most important features about this bill, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, is that it will not lessen the cost of collecting the State and county taxes. For instance, in our county the first cost would be nine thousand dollars for these five men. As it is now, it costs York County about eleven thousand dollars to collect her State and county taxes. Of course, the difference between nine thousand dollars and eleven thousand dollars is easily eaten up with fees, rent, fixtures, etc., and other expenses which must be paid. But that is not the only fact about this bill. The most important point about this bill is this: These tax collectors will go into the rural districts, townships and boroughs and stay but one day, and if the taxpayer does not get there and pay his tax on that specific day, he shall march to the county seat, fifteen, twenty or thirty miles distant to pay that tax and a great many men whose State and county tax amount to possibly only 23c are compelled to do that. It is an outrage to ask a man, even to give a post office Money Order, or to use a three-cent stamp to send 23c worth of taxes. In the large townships, as it is to-day, the tax collector stays at the various places, four to five days, and it is a matter of convenience to the taxpayer and if this bill passes and becomes a law, it interferes with that convenience and with the taxpayers of the rural districts, all of whom are opposed to this bill. Thirdly, this money that is paid to these collectors in this amount are in our country drawn from the collectors that we have. In my mind this money ought to stay out in the boroughs where the money is collected and put into the man's pocket to spend it in the district in which he lives. On the other hand, the delinquent taxes which are not easily collected and cannot easily be collected by these collectors, that is handed over to these collectors in the rural districts. Gentlemen, I hope there is enough red blood here this afternoon among the men in this House who will stand for the interests of the rural men.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to second the words of my colleague from York (Mr. Cook). I want to inform the members also that I believe that the York County delegation are united on this proposition; I believe that we are all opposed to this act, yet politically, on this proposition I am a loser if I vote against this bill. Politically speaking, the Democratic party would be considerably the gainer by the passage of this act; but we cannot be selfish or do anything for the inconvenience of the taxpayers at home. This bill is worthy of the careful consideration of the House, and I sincerely trust that the counties ranging from 35,000 to 200,000 will take note that this is a proposition that hereafter there shall be no open tax collectors for the purpose of collecting the county taxes. It does not relieve them, however, from collecting the school and road taxes. It means that the tax collectors you have are confined to one branch; and I want to say that the men are almost unanimously against this bill. I trust, therefore, that the members of the House will take all this into consideration and vote this measure down as it deserves to be voted down.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

MR. COX IN THE CHAIR.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time from page 12 of to-day's calendar, bills on final passage postponed, House Bill No. 1730 (Senate Bill No. 226), file folio 5705.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. RAMSEY,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1730 (Senate Bill No. 226), entitled

An Act to further amend the twenty-second section of an act entitled "An Act to regulate the nomination and election of public officers requiring certain expenses incident thereto to be paid by the several counties and punishing certain offenses in regard to such elections" approved the tenth day of June eighteen hundred and ninety-three as amended b yan act approved the twenty-ninth day of April nineteen hundred and three by providing a manner in which voters may designate their choice of candidates and repealing acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GLASS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: Before you vote on this bill I think it is real important that you understand what it provides. The purpose of this bill is to change the method of marking the ballot. Under the law as it exists today, there are two methods in which ballots may be marked. If a voter wants to vote a straight party ticket, he does so by marking a cross in the party column, in which case he votes for every candidate of that particular party. If the voter wants to vote for individuals and not to vote for every candidate he can keep out of the party column and vote for the individual candidates. As I was saying, gentlemen, under the bill which is now before you, if a voter marks or puts a cross in the party square and then he votes for an individual on a particular office and there is more than one candidate running for the office, this bill provides how that vote shall be counted. This is a very serious proposition to the voters of Pennsylvania. Some of the members of this House may become candidates for re-election and it may affect them, so I think it is important that we give this some attention.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. STERLING. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

The roll was verified, and was as follows:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 1317.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, June 17, 1919.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen: I return herewith, without my approval, House Bill No. 1317, entitled "An Act to enable boroughs of this Commonwealth to assume a bonded indebtedness for the erection of a monument or a memorial to the soldiers of their respective communities."

While the idea of thus honoring the memory of our soldiers is commendable, the property of giving boroughs authority to borrow money for this purpose is at least questionable. Counties now have authority to erect from the current revenue monuments or memorial halls in memory of our soldiers, sailors, and marines, but even counties may not borrow money for that purpose.

To give boroughs authority to borrow and appropriate moneys to the extent of two per centum of their assessed valuation for the purpose of this bill seems to be allowing our patriotism and generosity to go one step beyond good judgment.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

WM. C. SPROUL.

And the question being,

Shall the bill become a law, the objections of His Excellency the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

A motion was made by Mr. HESS and seconded by Mr. RAMSEY,

That the question, together with the further consideration of the communication, be laid upon the table.

Which was agreed to.

SPEAKER SPANGLER IN THE CHAIR.

NAYS—1.

Benninger,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1871 (Senate Bill No. 1188), entitled

An Act to amend section one of an act approved the eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred thirteen (Pamphlet Laws one hundred seventy-seven) entitled "An Act to define who shall be responsible for the maintenance of neglected or dependent children placed in the care and custody of any association society person or family by the courts of this Commonwealth"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to Senate Bill No. 1188 at this time. At the present time there is a legal action brought by the Allegheny Commissioners against the poor board for the recovery of $106,000, and if you will note, this act of 1913 provides "That the county shall in all cases have full recourse to recover all expenses incurred in behalf of the child brought into the presence of the poor district," and the bill is now amended by the elimination of the words "poor district." If the commissioners of Allegheny County be successful in getting judgment against the poor board, this action would be repealed and there would be no means of recovering. My friends have suggested that this legislation affected the legal action now pending before our courts by reason of the fact that this bill is retrocative, but as an act of courtesy to the members of the Allegheny County Commissioners, there should not be a repeal, and for that reason I ask you to vote this bill down.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: In answer to my friend from Allegheny County (Mr. Marcus), I just want to say this: The only difference in the judgment, if they recover that judgment, that the Poor Board will have to levy another assessment and tax the people, who have already paid for this bill, to reimburse the County Commissioners. This Act of 1913, when it was put on the statute books, was never meant to allow the County Commissioners to sue their own county Poor Board for money for the maintenance of the neglected and poor children. The Poor Board takes care of the poor children and the County Commissioners of the county take care of the children sent to some institution by the court: and the County Commissioners always levy a tax to meet that expense, and they have done so in this case for five years and now try to make the County Poor Board reimburse them and tax the same people twice for the same result. I ask you to vote for this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

An Act defining sedition and prescribing the punishment therefor

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, the bill that is before the Senate on final passage is the bill known as the Flynn Sedition Bill. Because of the fact that I intend to vote against the bill I desire to explain to the Senators here, not necessarily to my constituency, that there is no man in the Senate of Pennsylvania or America that loathes and despises more than I do the I. W. W., anarchist, or Bolshevist, and there is no man in the Senate or elsewhere that would be more willing or do more to see them deported, or executed, and I would be glad to see it done. If there is a lawyer in the Senate who can tell me one single act of sedition that is not already covered by the Federal Laws and by the laws of the State of Pennsylvania and that the man who is guilty of sedition cannot be arrested under the existing laws of the State of Pennsylvania I would like to learn it, I have been unable to find out through all the inquiries I have made from the lawyers from my own district and from the lawyers outside of my district. Mr. President, I think this bill is unnecessary and unwise at the present time and if the men who are empowered to enforce the issue and would carry out the laws they could get every man who is guilty of sedition under the existing laws of the State of Pennsylvania and for that reason I intend to vote against the bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from Committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DAIX, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended Senate Bill No. 1568 (House Bill No. 721), entitled:

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Judicial and Legislative Departments of the Commonwealth, interested in the public debt and the support of the public schools for the two fiscal years beginning June 1st, 1919, and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May 21st, 1919.

HOUSE INSISTS UPON ITS AMENDMENTS TO SENATE BILL NO. 850.

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives, informing the Senate that the House insists upon its amendments non-concurred in by the Senate to Senate Bill No. 850, entitled:

An Act to further amend an act approved the fifth day of March one thousand nine hundred and six (Pamphlet Laws sixty-three) entitled "An Act to provide for the personal registration of electors in cities of the third class of this Commonwealth to make such registration a condition of the right to vote in such cities and to provide penalties for violation of its provisions" as amended and has appointed Messrs. Jones, Powell and Harer as a Committee of Conference to confer with a similar committee of the Senate (already appointed) to consider the differences existing between the two houses in relation to said bill.

SENATE BILL NO. 993 RETURNED WITH AMENDMENTS.

He also returned to the Senate Senate Bill No. 993, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the second day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred and thirty-six) entitled "An Act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation and providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder" and providing when the same shall become effective with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate nonconcur in the amendments made by the House to Senate Bill No. 993.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, the bill as it now stands was amended in committee and re-amended on the floor of the House, which places the bill in the same position as amended in the Senate.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, the bill is not in the shape that it was unanimously agreed to by the representatives of the labor organizations and the Committee of the Senate who had it in charge. All that we ask is that the bill be put in the shape in which it was unanimously agreed to.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, I was reliably informed by the representatives of labor that this bill in its present shape is just as it was when it left the Senate. If I am wrongly informed I beg your pardon, but I am informed that the bill is now in the original shape.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair desires to inform the Senate that this bill is returned to the Senate in the form of a House Reprint, in which the amendment is in italics, but there is nothing to indicate from the reprint that there is an amendment in it.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, if what Senator Davis states is correct then there are no amendments for the Senate to concur in.

The PRESIDENT. The Senate does not know that.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, the bill certainly must have been sent back from the House with amendments or without amendments. May I inquire what is the report from the House? Does the House send back the bill with amendments or without amendments?

The PRESIDENT. The House returns the bill with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, if both bills are the same it would seem to me to be needless to vote on the same bill the second time. I therefore move that it be referred to a committee of three to compare these two bills, the one that passed the Senate unanimously and the one that has just come over from the House to-day, before we take a vote on it.

Mr. F. E. BALDWIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Chester, Mr. Eyre, will state his point of order.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, my point of order is that the concurrence in the amendment is the only thing before the Senate at this time.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair desires to inform the Senator from Chester, Mr. Eyre, that if the bill is the same as it was when it left the Senate there can be no amendment in which the Senate could concur. It seems to the Chair that there must be a mistake on the part of the printer who sent the bill back to the House and they sent it over to the Senate.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, is it not a fact that there is nothing in which to concur. If the Senate non-concurs in the amendment and the bill goes back to the House the House will know.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair desires to inform the Senator from Chester, Mr. Eyre, that if the desk were called upon to submit the amendment at this time it would be impossible to state wherein the bill was amended. Therefore it seems to the Chair that the motion made by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare, would be the pertinent motion to put at this time, in order that the Senate might be properly advised.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. At the instance of the President Pro Tempore the Chair appoints as said committee to compare the bills the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare, the Senator from Chester, Mr. Eyre, and the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Graff.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I at this time rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, my privilege question is to the effect that I would like to make a reply to some statement made in reference to the Transit Bill that was presented by me on April 18th to the Senate and the bill went over for consideration in the House and at that time, in the argument there was a statement made to the effect that it was not a proper bill. That no doubt would come back to me in the light that maybe there was something in this bill in which there was an ulterior motive and to some extent might reflect on my standing as a member of this Senate and as a citizen of this community. I want to say that for the benefit of the members of this Senate and for the citizenship of Pennsylvania that I believe that my record will stand the closest scrutiny, that I never in my experience as a member of the legislature or as a member of this Senate have been the advocate, or interested in, any legislation behind which there was a scandal; nor was I in any way interested in any legislation that would not stand the light of day and the closest scrutiny. I have no personal interest in this bill other than I am a citizen of this Commonwealth, and that I am interested in the City of Philadelphia. This bill comes not from any of my own thoughts but it comes here after thorough deliberation by the city solicitor of the City of Philadelphia. How partisan politics have entered into this matter I cannot understand. If the city solicitor of the City of Philadelphia is aligned with any other political faction of the City of Philadelphia, he is aligned with that faction, if there is any of it left, which is controlled by the senior Senator of Pennsylvania; and on March 27th I received this letter and I also received this bill from him, he being the law officer of the City of Philadelphia, and in this letter he states:

Hon. Samuel W. Salus
State Senate,
Harrisburg, Pa.

My dear Sir: The above bill entitled "An Act authorizing municipalities with the assent of the electors duly obtained at an election, to use moneys borrowed or authorized to be borrowed for purposes which have proved impracticable or impossible, for any other lawful municipal purpose"—was introduced by you on March 18, 1919, and on the same date was referred to the Committee on Municipal Affairs

This act was prepared by the Law Department. I believe it to be one of the most constructive pieces of legislation possible for the use of this or any other Municipality in the State.

You will observe the Section 2 provides the method by which this act may be carried into effect as follows:

(a) The date of such election.
(b) The amount of money theretofore borrowed or authorized to be borrowed.
(c) The purpose for which such money was originally authorized.
(d) The reason why said money may not be used for the purpose for which it was borrowed or authorized to be borrowed.
(e) The new purpose for which the corporate authorities of such city, borough, county, township, school district or other municipality or incorporated district desire to use the said money borrowed or authorized to be borrowed.

The act further provides for the special elections; and Section 7 provides that if a majority of the electors shall vote in favor of using said borrowed or authorized to be borrowed money for a purpose or purposes other than that for which it was originally authorized, the said money will thereafter be used for such new purpose or purposes in the same manner as if it had originally been authorized and borrowed for such purpose or purposes.

In substance, this act provides a method for a Referendum on Loans. It is not intended to curtail any public improvement, but provides ways and means for the Director of a Department to submit additional or new facts to Councils and for Councils to consider such facts, and thereafter for the electors to approve or disapprove. At all times, it is within the power of the people to say whether they want the Loans changed from the original purposes or not.

At the present time there is no legal method provided for transmitting again to the voters a Referendum on Loans in the light of modern developed or new conditions not originally anticipated or considered.

I would like to have the opportunity of appearing before the Committee on Municipal Affairs to explain this matter further in detail. I would also like to submit to you that the word "Unnecessary" should be used after the word "impossible" in the title of the act so that the said title, as amended, would read as follows: "An Act authorizing municipalities with the assent of the electors duly obtained at an election, to use moneys borrowed or authorized to be borrowed for purposes which have proved impracticable, or impossible, or unnecessary, for any other lawful municipal purpose"

I would also amend section 1, one page 2, line 5, by adding after the word "impossible" also the word "Unnecessary."

Very truly yours,
JOHN P. CONNELLY,
City Solicitor.

So, gentlemen of the Senate, you will see that back of this bill there is no political motive. There is no faction behind this bill, it is the cry of the citizenship of Philadelphia that we go on with the great transit facilities that have been started in that city. The constitution has been amended and was amended by the House and Senate in two separate sessions. The bill was placed before the people to be voted on, we voted to expend sixty-seven millions of dollars in the city of Philadelphia. Of that sixty-seven million dollars up to the present time three million dollars have been expended on the subway, three million dollars have been expended on the Frankford "L," the sum of eight hundred thousand dollars have been expended on Arch street, eight hundred thousand dollars on Locust street. This money is now lying idle and it is impossible for the men, as I understand it, who have charge of the construction of this Rapid Transit System or Highspeed Line, as they call it in the city of Philadelphia, to continue with their work and finish the proposition which the citizens have undertaken, and if this bill is defeated this great work by the city of Philadelphia will have to remain in idleness for the next two years and in that idleness large sums of money will be expended for interest charges in carrying these loans. However this is a proposition that cannot be charged to the present administration in the city of Philadelphia. Charge it, if you will, or whatever ulterior motive or purpose you may have you will have to answer to the people. It will not be the administration that is now conducting the city of Philadelphia who will have to answer. It may be asked by the people here for what reason were these stumbling blocks put in the regular and orderly manner in which this legislature should have passed on this measure. It may be said, and rightfully said, that if this legislation would have gone through that the present administration of the city of Philadelphia would have been credited for it and deservedly so. They would have been entitled to that credit; but credit or no credit this is not a political issue it only became a political issue when powers strong and mighty in this great Commonwealth saw fit to choke and smother this legislation, and those powers in a day not far distant will have to answer to that intelligent voting population in the city of Philadelphia who will, in the right time, in the right place, stamp their disapproval on such action as this. These are real facts, and gentlemen of this Senate, when this bill was first thought of thousands of representative business men from the city of Philadelphia came up here in a body and demanded this legislation. I predict that before the year 1920 is over fifty thousand of the citizens of Philadelphia will be on this Capitol front demanding that the Governor of this Commonwealth bring you all back here in order that you may give to us that legislation that a political power has robbed us of. They will be here. This is the day of the people, you must reckon with the people and the citizenship of the city of Philadelphia will be reckoned with and this good Governor of ours, who knows that the people are right, who knows that they are asking only for what is fair and just, will, I predict, bring you back here to right the wrong that has been done to the citizenship of Philadelphia, and to right or wrong the people will never send back to the United States Senate the man who represents them now.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, when this bill just referred to was sent here by our leading law officer of Philadelphia I talked with Senator Crow about the bill and he said some friends in the western part of the State wanted the bill amended to make sure the money would not be used for any other purposes except transit purposes, and those interested in this Philadelphia bill, those interested in the transit situation of Philadelphia, immediately agreed to help to amend that bill. Every member of this Senate voted for that bill and when it got over in the Municipal Affairs Committee of the House it was there about five weeks and the Business Men's Association of Philadelphia, headed by Mr. Charles Fluck and the Director of the Rapid Transit of Philadelphia, along with some others, came here to inquire why the bill was smothered. I said our friends in Philadelphia were all for the bill, to the last man, and I advised them to talk to Senator Crow. Senator Crow informed them that he thought it was a good bill. I then advised them to go down to the Hotel, where Senator Penrose was sitting directing other factional Philadelphia legislation, and when these three gentlemen of the committee went there to ask if he would not help, notwithstanding it was only one week before the close of this Legislature, he would not promise to give any help. As a matter of fact he issued newspaper statements early in the proceedings, when this bill was being considered, that this bill was worth looking at. He told this committee that, notwithstanding that it ties up $50,000,000 for two years and that the rapid transit program is hamstrung hand and feet, he told this committee that he did not think he would bother with this bill. I submit to the members of this Senate, a man who is willing and able to spend five or six weeks time up here, getting little or no factional legislation for his trouble ought to say to his friends this is a good bill in the interest of Philadelphia and the voters of Philadelphia ought to have the right to re-pass on this proposition, also to re-pass on the re-districting of the lines and re-appropriating money. Gentlemen, I have been sitting around this legislature since 1897, off and on, and on my honor, of all the mean things I ever saw done here or in the House, that is the meanest thing, when it is considered that it is a fact that the present administration down there cannot possibly have anything to do with the new plan, the plan that would be changed by reason of the war conditions. If there would be any possible politics in this bill, I would not say a single word about it, because you know when two elements get to wrangling over a proposition sometimes a good and meritorious proposition gets left, but in this case there was no factional reason under the sun for Senator Penrose not getting in and helping good legislation, when he was in this city five weeks fooling with good-for-nothing factional legislation. The people of Philadelphia were entitled to this legislation, they were entitled to a chance to vote as they pleased on this legislation. Conditions are not now as they were when they voted on this legislation two years ago before the war, they are altogether different, and it is not for Penrose or any other man to say the people have no right to change the situation to meet the present conditions brought on by the war. If this were a small matter that did not concern all of the people and the city itself, I would be the last man to get up here. The people do not want any such situation as that in Philadelphia for political reasons or any other reasons. It is not necessary. What the people down there want is a chance to reconstruct the city in accordance with the conditions left there by the war, and nothing more and nothing less. There was not the slightest politics in any way in this bill from our members, just an honest chance for the people to decide whether they wanted these routes as laid out and the appropriations before the war—whether they wanted to change them, or wanted them to be let alone. It is a matter entirely for the people and no right exists on th part of the members of the House to try to interfere with it. Senator Crow said of the bill that it was one of the best and fairest propositions he had ever seen, after reading the bill. Gentlemen, I am not going to take up your time over this matter now. It is too late. There was some holding up of the bill here in the Senate by reason of the fact that one of the Philadelphia Senators wanted to look carefully into the bill. After he looked over the bill he made no further objections to it.

I want to repeat, and then I am through, that this is the meanest, dirtiest and smallest political trick that a man who holds high office could play on all of our people, with the net result that the large station under the City Hall costing over two millions of dollars, and the Frankford elevated line, nearly completed, will remain idle for at least two years, because there will be no constructed lines leading to and from these improvements.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, on behalf of the committee appointed earlier in the day, I would like to report that the committee examined the bill that went through the Senate and the bill that came back from the House, and we found the language exactly as was stated by Senator Davis; that is, we found where the committee cut out a provision in committee, which was replaced on the floor of the House, leaving the bill reading exactly as it read when it went through this Senate.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1520 (House Bill No. 250), entitled:

An Act concerning landlords and tenants and to afford relief to tenants in cases where excessive rents are charged or are intended to be charged and regulating the proceeding thereunder

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. VARE. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, this bill is known as the rent payer's bill. This bill was drawn, and passed through the House, for the purpose of preventing greedy landlords from overcharging the tenants in one particular section. In my district, as well as many others all over the city, and especially West Philadelphia, houses are very scarce and the greedy landlords, not all of them, however, take advantage of the fact that these people, twenty-five thousand rent payers, are being mulcted from day to day by having notice to move or pay five dollars more a month rent. There being no empty houses in Philadelphia, many, many thousand families are hunting for houses. There is no place to go to get another house, therefore they are at the mercy of these landlords, and by reason of that they formed themselves into large organizations in our city, especially West Philadelphia and South Philadelphia, had this bill drawn by a competent lawyer, had it brought to the House by Representative Walker, passed and messaged over here to the Senate. If the members of this Senate knew what the conditions were in Philadelphia with reference to the shortage of houses and the way the tenants are tied and no opportunity of getting any other houses—they are just at the mercy of these landlords. I have in mind one man down there named Bryant, by the name of William C. Bryant, a millionaire two or three times over, owning about fifteen hundred houses. He attempted to raise the rent when the war came, had his agent notify the tenants they would have to pay two dollars a month more for houses that brought fifteen dollars a month each. That went along well, the tenants willingly paid that. Next they come along with two dollars more and after some complaint they all paid that two dollars a month more, making a raise of four dollars, and they came along and asked two dollars a month more. There was some more complaint but they finally paid that Next comes along a notice "We want five dollars a month more," making eleven dollars in all. "We want five dollars a month for this little house or get out in thirty days." Gentlemen, it ought not to be necessary to say to you men here in the Senate, that the people are simply at the mercy of some of these greedy landlords. They first knocked on the door of the House and got redress a part of the way and they are now knocking on the door of the Senate to get what they think they are properly entitled to. If I talked to you for an hour

I could not say any more in explanation of what the conditions are than I have already said. I hope the Senate will pass this bill.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, there is nobody sympathizes more deeply than I do with the renters in the instances that have been cited by the Senator from Philadelphia on account of profiteering. It is a hardship upon lots of people, but it would be an equal hardship upon the reputable landlords of the State of Pennsylvania if this bill were to be enacted into law. It affects every part of Pennsylvania and none so seriously, perhaps, as the agricultural districts, which I have the honor in part to represent. It would place the owner of a farm at a very great disadvantage. It would destroy his income for the entire year, and I am advised by the best attorney at the Chester County Bar that this bill is so clearly unconstitutional that no Executive could possibly sign it. Therefore, I move you, because of its unconstitutionality, that it be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

A division having been called for the "yeas" were 19 and the "nays" 3. Whereupon, the question was decided in the affirmative.

RECESS.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until nine o'clock this evening.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS.

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. H. Feldmann, offered the following prayer:

God of our fathers and our God, bless, we pray Thee, our native land with such heavenly blessings as only Thy father-mind can devise. Cleanse Thou us from all dross of whatever source, as the refiner purifies the gold, and make us worthy of such divine blessings and gifts as we need and can use. Grant unto us, we pray Thee, that a pure and ardent patriotism shall be as free as the air around us, and if there be any in our land who do not love it, may they seek such climes as are more congenial to them. May the spirit of patriotism be thoroughly fostered everywhere, and may the public schools become a training school for it. May the press be unshackled but not unbridled, and may business be purified and refined so that it shall be more than the mere winning of gold; and may the home be ever the bulwark of our country's defense. Call forth, we pray Thee, public men who shall fill with fidelity and zeal the offices to which they are appointed; and in everything lift us up, we pray Thee, and make us worthy of Thy divine favor. Amen.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1870 (Senate Bill No. 1120), entitled

An Act authorizing the purchasing or building of residences for principals teachers or janitors by school districts of the fourth class

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, if there is any gentleman in the House who can explain the purpose of this bill, I wish he would do so.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill is very apparent. It is set forth very clearly in the title. It is an act "authorizing the purchasing or building of residences for principals, teachers or janitors, by school districts of the fourth class." If you will refer to the Pennsylvania School Journal, the May issue, 1919, page 538, you will find an article devoted to this bill, entitled "Homes for Teachers." Part of the article reads as follows: "The parsonage is usually under the shadow of the church. The school manse, the Home of the Teacher—almost as much needed as that of the preacher—is coming soon in the better days ahead. Senator John G. Homsher, of Lancaster County, has introduced in the Senate at Harrisburg, a bill providing that school districts of the fourth-class may purchase or build dwelling-houses for principals, teachers and janitors, in cases where such dwellings are deemed necessary by the board of directors. This bill is not mandatory, but gives them the right to purchase the building or dwelling for the principal, teacher or janitor of the school. That is all that the bill does. It simply permits boards of directors, when they deem it necessary to properly award efficient service, to build a home or dwelling for their principal or teacher.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1737 (Senate Bill No. 798), entitled

A Supplement to an act entitled "An Act authorizing and regulating the survey appraisal and patenting of lands in beds of navigable rivers or streams permitted by the Government of the United States to be abandoned and filled as no longer of use for ordinary purposes of navigation" approved the twenty-seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws six hundred sixty-five)

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MOTION TO DROP BILL FROM THE CALENDAR

Mr. BENCHOFF. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be dropped from the calendar.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BRADY. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House. This bill is merely a supplement to the Act of 1913. The idea is to limit that act expressly so that it shall not apply to any patents pending prior to 1913. I do not think any member of this House really thinks this bill is without merit.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House. The spirit which prompts the motion to strike this bill from the calendar is two-fold or rather two spirits, and are the spirits which dominated this House during its en-fire session. If you will bear with me for a few moments, I will try to present those spirits to you as best I can. The first one is that of a fair deal. In every instance since this House has been in session, when any motion or move was made that this House considered was not regular or in accordance with the rules and regulations governing it, it was voted down. Now this bill comes before you in this way: A few days ago this bill was referred to the Committee on Geological Surveys. The committee proceeded at once to call a meeting to take action on this bill. They were unable to get a quorum until after they had made two or three attempts, I myself going around for half an hour two or three different times trying to get the members together to have a meeting to take action on this bill. The other evening while we were in the midst of a commotion in the House, all interested in the important legislation under consideration, a gentleman of the House, not a member of the committee, came to me and asked me to sign a paper which certified, I believe, that the bill had been lost and asking that the committee act upon the certified copy. I said to the gentleman that the bill was not lost, that it was in the hands of the chairman of the committee, and that we were trying to get a meeting of the committee to take action on the bill. He said, "The chairman will not call a meeting at all and we have enough to put it in course anyhow." I said, "All right;" and he went away. The bill was presented to the desk in the midst of the commotion, and I thought I heard the number of the bill being read. I jumped to my feet, but could not get recognition by the Chair, and the bill was read for the first time. That is the first proposition; you have voted it down invariably, and I ask you to aid us this time. The next proposition is that of sustaining your committee. I grant you that this is not a very important committee and admit that this is the first and only bill presented to the House from that committee for action. The committee did not organize when this bill was presented to the House for its action. The next proposition, therefore, is to stand by your committee. We have done the very best we could; we have tried to get the committee together as promptly as we could. We got together just as soon as we could and then only get eight members of our committee together. We organized; we elected our secretary and acted upon this bill, and it was offered to the House yesterday morning, as I recall it. Now, gentlemen, I want to say to you that I don't want to leave this House and feel that the Speaker has broken his excellent record in securing a fair deal for all, and that you will stand by your committee in this case when they did the best they could and that you will sustain them in their action.

Mr. LEVIS. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Venango (Mr. Mallery) I wish to state that this bill was in committee for a week and had to be reported out last Monday, otherwise probably we could not get it on the calendar in time to get it passed. Last Monday night Mr. Benchoff was not in the House. At the time this resolution was reported out or brought around to the committee, to be signed, there was no thought of dealing unfairly with the chairman or any other member of the committee. The resolution was brought around to the members of the committee and he was given an opportunity to act upon it and have the bill read and the resolution was there, and he could have seen it if he cared to. The majority of the members of the Geological Survey Committee signed it, and I think that the members knew that it was to be reported out negatively, and the next day they met and decided to report it out negatively. This bill is merely defining the scope of the act of 1919. I cannot see where there is any substantial objection to the passage of this bill. The members of the committee who signed that resolution did not do it for the purpose of getting around a meeting of the committee; they did it because the chairman was not there on Monday night.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The Chair declared the "nays" appear to have it,

Whereupon a division was called for, and 52 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 71 in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not concurred in.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The Clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, some one in the House is answering "aye" to every name that is called, and I protest. I shall insist upon a verification of the roll after the vote is taken.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will proceed with the call of the roll, which will be verified after the vote is taken.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is so recorded.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I challenge the vote of Mr. Aron.

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Aron) in the House? The gentleman does not respond. The name of Mr. Aron will be dropped from the roll.

Mr. MILNER. Mr. Speaker, I voted "aye," but I did not hear my name called.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman vote?

Mr. MILNER. Mr. Speaker, I voted "aye" and I desire to be so recorded.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. HORACE F. REBER. Mr. Speaker, I was recorded as voting "aye." I voted under a misapprehension, and I wish to be recorded as voting "nay."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. ALBERT MILLAR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is so recorded.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask if Mr. Heyburn has been recorded as voting?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware (Mr. Heyburn) is not recorded as voting.

Mr. HARER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman vote?

Mr. HARER. Mr. Speaker, I voted "no."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The Chair will state that if there is no further objection, the affirmative roll, as verified, will stand as follows:

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

PRESENTATION CEREMONIES.

SPEAKER SPANGLER. It is customary, at this season of the year to perform certain ceremonies. The Chair will request the gentleman from Butler, Mr. Woner, to take the Chair.

CHAIRMAN WONER. The Chair recognizes the irrepressible gentleman from Philadelphia, the Honorable James A. Walker.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Chairman and Members of the House of Representatives: In accordance with an ancient custom in this Legislature, it has become the usage to remember at this time him whom we have honored as our Speaker. In this particular instance we have been able to choose for him something that will bring to his mind the happiest moment during his term as a member of the House of Representatives in 1919. Human friends frequently fail a man, but it has been said that a man's best friend is his dog, and therefore this House, recalling the great bill, House Bill No. 1000, desires to present to our Speaker a real vivid image of the dog that he so carefully looked after. I have the pleasure, Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the members of the House, to present to you a very wise specimen of French or Russian poodle.

SPEAKER SPANGLER. Gentlemen, I thank you.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. James A. Walker.

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House: Almost six months ago we convened in this Hall to enter upon our duties as the members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania for the session of 1919. It was with mingled feelings that we gathered here, for many, if not all of us, were absolutely strangers to each other. But that signal good-fellowship that exists among men in public affairs quickly asserted itself, and in a few short months the wintry feeling of strangeness gave over to the spring of friendship, and before the summer solstice came friendship became to many of us the story of the Jonathan and David, the tale of Damon and Pythias. And now the closing hour of the session is at hand; a few fleeting moments will pass, the gavel falls, and then we clasp each other by the hand, gaze in our colleagues' faces once again, say good-bye, homeward plow our weary way, and on the morrow wait regretful that we have had to bid this dear old life farewell.

This session will mean much to those who follow us. We have sided in the ratification of the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Amendments, to the Constitution of the United States; we have given the metropolis of our State a new charter; in short, time fails me to recount the legislation passed at this session, which it is confidently believed will be of great good to our people in the future. It seems but natural that such good should come of this session. We entered upon our duties impatiently waiting for the inaugural of that worthy son of Delaware County as our Governor, William Cameron Sproul. In him we have a leader of whom posterity will say he was Pennsylvania's best Governor. The first official act of this House was a good omen of our future. By the rule of reason and according to custom, it was needful that we choose a leader. After careful consideration there was chosen from among the chaste, pure white roses the honorable Robert S. Spangler, of York, as our Speaker. (Applause).

As the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. Ramsey) said when nominating him for that office, it was "the most important office within our gift as members of the House of Representatives." It is more than that, for "the influence and power of the Speaker on legislation is believed by many to exceed that exerted by the Executive." The speakership has been regarded as "the highest office within the reach of a citizen." To quote from the words of a famous Speaker of our National Legislature, the speakership is "a grand official station, great in the honor which is conferred, and still greater in the ability it gives to impress on our history and legislation the stamp of truth, fairness, justice and right."

Upon his election our Speaker pledged his "greatest fidelity" in this great office. He also said "it shall be my earnest endeavor to be fair, to be just, to be considerate, and to be courteous in all my rulings and in all my dealings with you, my fellow-members." None of us but can subscribe to the statement that he has, in word and deed, carried out with the greatest fidelity his sworn duty. Fairness, justice, consideration and courtesy have ever been emblazoned before us during this session by the Speaker. In the clear notes of a bell he has given information on matters considered by us. His rulings have been terse, cogent and supported by logical argument when challenged.

Now, Mr. Speaker, as you retire from this great office I assure you that you do so holding the highest degree of our respect, confidence, love and esteem; and in evidence thereof, we, the members of the House of Representatives desire that you may have an abiding proof of our affection. First, we joy in presenting you with this watch the supreme effort of the skill of the guild of watchmakers and jewelers, encased, as its hallmark shows, in the most precious of pure metals. It betokens our hearts' wishes for you in the minutes, hours, days, months and years appointed to you for labor by the great Architect of the Universe, that in your chosen walk of life such great skill shall be your portion that you shall become a matchless leader among your fellowmen and ever be surrounded by the most precious and purest things of life. To this end may this watch also carry to you this message:

"Sum me up at night what thou hast done by day;
And in the morning what thou hast to do.
Dress and undress thy soul; mark the decay
And growth of it; if, with thy watch, that too
Be down, then wind up both."

Again we are pleased that we may tie you to us by binding your memories with this chain of rare design and beauty, made of precious metal with the greatest skill. Truly its design and beauty typify the meaning of our friendship and our love. Its every link brings to the memory a face, a word, a hand-clasp. To you may these together tell.

"Time flies on restless pinions—constant never;
Be constant—and thou claimest time for ever."

God only knows it we all shall ever meet again. Some we knew here and loved have gone beyond and answered the last rollcall and await us in the eternal house. As we gaze on these expressions of regard we recall the words of Oliver Wendall Holmes:

"Fast as the rolling seasons bring
The hour of Fate to those we love,
Each pearl that leaves the broken string
Is set in Friendship's crown above;
As narrower grows the earthly chain,
The circle widens in the sky;
These are our treasures that remain,
But those are stars that beam on high."

Lastly, this House presents to you this golden knife. Superstition would raise her hideous head at such a gift, if we did not believe with Cicero that "superstition is a senseless fear of God." No, Mr. Speaker, this knife shall never cut a friendship. It is too well chained to time to permit of that. It has to us a more glorious and noble purpose. It carries this old message from Alexander Pope:

"What Nature wants, commodious gold bestows;
'Tis thus we cut the bread another sows."

To you may it ever stand as a symbol that as our fellow-citizen we expect you to cut down Treason and Rebellion; as a lawyer to divide Truth and Error; and as a man to separate Right from Wrong. For, Mr. Speaker,

"We live in deeds, not years;
In thoughts, not breaths;
In feelings, not in figures on a dial;
He most lives, who does most,
Acts the noblest, feels the best,
All life's a means unto an end,
That end beginning, mean an end
Of all things— God."

May then the trinity of gifts, Mr. Speaker, bring pleasant recollectoins flooding back to you. We congratulate you in truth and sincerity upon your successful term as Speaker of this House, and our earnest prayer and hope is that long life may crown your head and that joy and prosperity shall ever be your attendant angels. (Applause.)

SPEAKER SPANGLER. Mr. Chairman, Mr. Walker, my friends and colleagues: Words cannot express my feeling of gratitude for the gift that you have presented me at this time; but the thought the gift represents is more to me than the gift itself, because I shall remember the reason and the causes for which this gift was given, and I shall cherish that memory forever. When I undertook the speakership of this House, it was with some trepidation for I feared my own ability; but I realized that by a proper co-operation with the members of this House, we must necessarily have a reasonably successful session, and I have been more than gratified with the action and the treatment of the members in co-operating with me in the performance of the State's duties. I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to every individual member of this House. I feel that every member of this House was and is my friend, and that we have reciprocated our duties, one to the other. I feel that this session has been a successful session, and that all of us, both you and I, can share in whatever measure of success has attended our labors. We have had, during our session, numerous little misunderstandings; we have had a rising of temper; we have had feelings of discouragement and feelings of bitterness, perhaps, at times; but when we review the whole situation in the prospective, it is like an indentation on a great landscape,—it does not appear; and in looking back upon the landscape of this session, I think that we all feel that it stands before us without a blemish and without a mar, and for that I am grateful, and I know you are grateful as well. It is a sad time, this season, this season of parting, but we all knew at the beginning of the session that this hour must arrive. I think that each and every one of us can feel that in leaving for our homes we have given to our constituency our best, and that our constituency will reciprocate that feeling for us, and I feel that the members of this House, who desire to return the coming session, can point to their records with pride and say, "This is my work, this is my record, this is my platform," and your constituencies can well say, "Well done, good and faithful servant, return to the duties of your Commonwealth, to carry on the business anew, if you so desire."

I again thank you, my friends and colleagues, for this beautiful tribute. I shall ever cherish it, and I trust it shall ever be with me; and I know that if I keep this watch as long as I do the memory of this House, and the memory of the kindnesses and courtesies shown me by the members of this House, it shall continue to be mine until the last day of my existence. I thank you gentlemen, one and all, for your kindness, for your courtesy and for your consideration, and I wish to each of you Godspeed and prosperity in the future. (Applause).

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Ramsey.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House: At this time it is an additional pleasure for me, not to particularly represent the members of the House, but to represent one of our distinguished co-workers, the Chief Clerk, and in just a few remarks, in order that I will not prolong the ceremonies, to present to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, on behalf of the Chief Clerk, this traveling bag and this gavel. Mr. Speaker, in speaking for the Chief Clerk, I present you these two gifts, that you might cherish the memory of this session, insofar as your work with the Chief Clerk and his with you is concerned. I, therefore, present to you these gifts on behalf of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives. (Applause).

SPEAKER SPANGLER. Mr. Chairman, and Mr. Chief Clerk and members of the House: I am almost overwhelmed with the generosity of the members and of the Chief Clerk. Permit me to thank Mr. Garvin for his kindness and his courtesies, and I assure him that I shall carry in that bag the memory of the pleasant association that I have had with him and the good times we have had together at the desk. I thank you. (Applause).

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lawrence, who has the unique distinction of being a Presbyterian minister and a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature at the same time, the Honorable "Shorty" Jordan. (Applause).

Mr. JORDAN. Mr. Chairman and friends of the House of Representatives of 1919: I feel more at home at this moment than I have at any other time since I came into your midst, hearing myself named "Shorty" Jordan. It took me back to old college days and I always feel that someone is somewhat acquainted with me when I am so recognized. Pardon me for being reminiscent for one moment. When I came into your midst I very modestly took a rear seat. I began very high up and I have been descending from that time until at this, until at the end of six months I have reached the very lower regions of the House of Representatives. I came here determined to view the House out of my own eyes—eyes clear—visioned without any prejudice, bias or ill will. I came here determined to weigh your motives, as far as possible, by my own judgment. I believe when I first appeared before you that I stated I had nothing but kindness in my heart for all. If I have not lived up to that statement I am open for your censure and your condemnation. I have been agreeably surprised in the character of our House—not that I had any low estimate, however—but because of the high motives of the men who represent our splendid Commonwealth here. I believe that as I studied you, you have nothing but the welfare of our Commonwealth at heart, as you view it and consider it. True, we have differed in our views. Right here at my left sits a man (Mr. Ramsey) who has opposed me on the floor of this House, and I have opposed him with all my might, but within the last five days brother Ramsey has asked me to visit him in his own home; and I intend, Brother Ramsey, with a full heart to visit you whenever the opportunity comes and, if ever I am fortunate enough to have a home of my own, the latchstring will be out for you at any time (Applause); and those are my feelings toward all the men of this House without respect to the views you may have or may have presented in this House. We have done our best and I hope we will be able to look back upon this session with some degree—I hope a large degree—of satisfaction. I feel that we have done our best to aid the head of our administration. When I say, "the head of our administration." I recall him last night, in the Senate, standing beside his classmate and roommate in college, Mitchell Palmer—a man who has been spoken of in relation to the highest position in the gift of the United States—and I said in my own mind: Would it not be a magnificent thing if these two boys, who roomed together and slept together in college and loved each other, should be our national standard bearers in 1920? (Applause). I believe we have done our best to make the administration of our Commonwealth one worthy and memorable and I hope we will receive the commendation of our constituents when we return to our homes.

Now, it has devolved upon me to present to our esteemed Resident Clerk, Milton K. Burgner, a token of the regard and appreciation of the House. He is a new man in our midst; we have not become well acquainted with him; yet, as we know him, we highly regard him. He is the man who has it, I believe, within his power to determine where we, if we return to this House at some future day, will be seated. Mr. Burgner, your present has come from the members of the "badlands" out in the rear row there (indicating the rear of the hall), and if we return two years hence we will deem it an appreciation of our gift if you will permit us to sit in the bald-headed row, and I speak especially for our friend, Brother Stark, who is already attired in the upper region, for a seat in a more worthy section of this House. We will be expected then right down here in the midst of the bears when we return. We may be disappointed and, if so, we will not drink vinegar, but we will drink molasses and hope for a better day when we will have more sugar to eat. We like it back there because we can meet and see everybody. He has also not only the privilege of saying where we will sit, but the privilege of saying, largely, whether or not we will come back. You know we will get votes as we send food to the voters and he has the stuff to send to the voters at our suggestion, send out the literature, send it out by the cart load; and as a result of it, through him, too, you and all will come back. He also has the prerogative of placing before use every morning a bill of fare. He is the man responsible for having our calendar prepared and placed before us, and he has always been on the job, even if we have not been as careful and as considerate and as studious as we might have been. We deem it, then, a privilege to-day. Mr. Burgner, to present to you a pin and we hope that when you walk about, letting your light shine, you will remember us. We wish for you nothing but unlimited success in your business, which, I understand, is the gas business. If you had lived in Lawrence County, being in the gas business, instead of sending you down here to sit in silence they would have elected you to the Legislature. They do that with all the men who are in the gas business in Lawrence County, and occasionally we send one to Congress. May you come back to our midst again that we may become better acquainted with you and appreciate your efforts still more largely than we have done. So here, in the name of the House of Representatives, I wish to present to you a pin of beauty and brilliance as an estimate of our regard. (Applause).

Mr. BURGNER. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House: I wish I could make a speech and express my appreciation; but I cannot. I thank you very much.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stadtlander.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House: I shall be very brief. The token which I intended to present on behalf of the members of the House is to my fellow-townsman. The true test of friendship is the question of living with the man. We have lived with this townsman just the same as every married man lives with his wife and learns to know her. We have learned to know this man and we cherish him. The delegation from Allegheny County realized that he is a valuable man, and no doubt the rest of the members have appreciated that by this time. It is to my fellow-townsman, J. Edward Brackney, that we deliver a token. (Applause.) We trust, Mr. Brackney, that this may prove valuable and of service to you.

Mr. BRACKNEY. Mr. Chairman, I thank the members of the Allegheny County delegation.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Albert Millar.

Mr. ALBERT MILLAR. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House: I am not very much of a speech-maker, but as the man to be recognized at this time, on behalf of one of our fellow-townsman, I would like to say a word in just a small way about one of my associates, whom I have been associated with here in Harrisburg for a good many years, a son of one of the best leaders in his day that we ever had in Harrisburg, a man who is among us now. He is always on the job, our Assistant Resident Clerk, Mr. Dale Meals. Now Mr. Meals, in behalf of the members of the House of Representatives, we present you this piano lamp. It is our wish that in your days to come, you and your little family, when sitting at home in the evening under the glare of its light, will remember and cherish the officers and members of the 1919 Session of this Assembly. (Applause).

Mr. MEALS. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I thank you sincerely for this token of your regard.

CHAIRMAN WONER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Chester, Mr. North.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Chairman and members of the House of Representatives:

I want to assure you sirs, that this address of mine will have at least one merit, that of brevity, for that was the admonition I received when the honor was assigned me. Gentlemen, I realize that the closing hours of this session of the legislature are rapidly approaching, and with it and with them the parting of friends and companions, whom we shall ever love and cherish, and I, for one, believe that these memories will ever linger as the most precious in our lives.

To many of us this experience has been new and novel, but how happy we are today to testify that it has been most pleasant and delightful. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank you for the many kind and courteous things that you have done, and I want to say to you people today that I feel happy at this hour and I esteem it a great privilege to say to you that I am glad indeed for the opportunity that has been offered to me to help to place upon the statute books of this great old Commonwealth of ours, I believe, some of the best legislation that this body has ever passed. Next to that, gentlemen, nay, I sometimes feel paramount to that is the joy that comes welling up in my soul for the splendid companionship that you have furnished, and I believe with hope, I believe in fondness, if you please, mingled with deepest hope, that these memories will linger even unto the eveningtide; nay, I believe that even when the shadows of life may come, that in fancy I will feel the touch of the warm hand and, perhaps, when all human skill has failed, hear glad word and God-speed into that farther land, into that country from whose bourne no traveler e're returns.

Again Mr. Speaker, we wish to thank you for your splendid service, for your courtesy, for your dignity and for your grace, for your fair and impartial rulings. We want to thank all of your officials for the splendid and most efficient services that they have rendered.

Mr. McCord, to me has fallen the pleasant duty, and I shall ever deem it, sir, as a great honor, to present you with this chime clock. It is suggestive that you be always on time. Take it, sir, as a token of our love; take it, and with it our hand and heart. Carry it back to the hills and valleys of old Chester County, and there on the historic banks of the Brandywine, may its chimes, as they come and go, ever remind you of the warm friendships that you have in this body. And further, when you take it into the happy home circle, amid loved ones and friends, may its chimes, as they come and go, remind you not only of our friendships, but of your duty. May it remind you, sir, of your duty in helping to build a better, heartier and more wholesome sentiment among your kind, and thus help to create in those with whom you mingle, a higher and nobler citizenship. Take it, and with it our very best wishes. (Applause).

Mr. McCORD. Gentleman, I thank you.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, our capable and beloved floor leader, "Two-and-Three-Quuarters Ramsey."

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House: May I just in a brief word thank each member of the House for all the courtesies you have extended to me during this session. May I not feel, as brother Jordan has said, that the latch strings of each of your homes may be out for me when I might be a wayfaring traveller in your vicinity. I hope that is so; in fact, I know it is, notwithstanding the fact that we might have "two-and-three-quarters." Mr. Chairman, the last is usually the best, and so there is another speaker yet to follow me. I have looked along the desk and I have seen the anxious expression upon one of our most beloved officials in this House, feeling that he was going to be left out of this ceremony. But who could ever think of leaving him out who has become a factor in the closing hours as well as in the opening hours of every General Assembly. The members of this House may come and go, but Tom Garvin stays here forever. (Applause.)

(The House sang: "Oh Tommy, you are a friend of mine.")

Like old wine he improves with age. Down in Delaware County, my friends, we recognized the ability of the man. We have recognized that for years. Delaware County has given to the State of Pennsylvania some of its best officials. To-day we are proud not only that we have given Garvin to the House of Representatives again and again, but in that county we have not only Garvin but the Attorney General, the Governor of the Commonwealth —we have everything; and am I not proud when I say to you that I thank you for the courtesies that you have extended to me? In 1893 we recognized the ability of Tom Garvin in Delaware County and we sent him up here to the Legislature and he served here until 1900 and the members of that General Assembly, feeling and recognizing that Garvin would be the proper man to keep the rolls of the House in proper shape in the hereafter selected him for that service and if Burgner is the man that furnishes our calendars, Garvin is the man that furnishes our laws (applause), for who has ever caught Garvin napping when a verification has been asked for?

"How does the gentleman vote?" "I voted 'aye.'" "The gentleman is so recorded." And that generally settles the question.

For nineteen years he has graced that place. We have given gifts to him year after year until we have almost exhausted our choice like a fellow does the names of his children when he lasts that long. To-day we are going to present to you, Tommy, this: I think it is a dress suit set. It has cuff buttons and stud buttons and some other kind of buttons—I don't know what they are. However, we are presenting to you this gift, Tommy, coming from the hearts of every one of these men here, because there is never an hour of the day or night when Tom Garvin is called upon to serve a member of the House that he does not respond willingly. In the opening of a session he may have opposition—some of you may think that Tom is not the proper man—but at the close of each session there is no more popular man in the Pennsylvania Legislature than the man we love in Delaware County and the man that you love to-day, Tom Garvin. (Applause.)

Take it, Tommy. It comes from the hearts of each of your co-workers.

Mr. GARVIN. Mr. Ramsey and members of the House: I feel at this time that I can do nothing further but say to you that I thank you.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the Governor of the State of Allegheny, Honorable Jerry Simpson. (Applause).

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, don't forget that this is the last time that you are going to hear me. I suppose you are all better pleased than I am, so you ought to at least allow me to say some few things before we part. I do not know why they allowed me to remain last unless it is to fulfill an old adage that I heard one time of a little boy whose father had been in the army, and when he came home he brought his musket with him. The father figured that he would shoot the muskrat off before he got home, but the nearer he got home, the less he thought about that, and he finally brought the musket home and hung it up in the room and hung the powder horn over the end of it. His little son always anxious to shoot the musket that his father carried during the war, but his mother would never allow the little boy to take it down. Finally, one day when his father and mother were away, the little fellow ran into the house and said to his grandmother: "Granny, there is a crow sitting out there on the tree. Let me take the musket and shoot it." She said: "All right, take it down and hurry up." He took down the musket and powder horn, and went out, and he looked down the barrel of the musket and saw some dirt in it, so he just poured a charge of powder in and shoved it down. Then he looked down the barrel again and saw he had not gotten it all down, so he poured in another charge and shoved that down, and just about the time that he leveled the old musket, the crow flew. Granny, in the house, was listening to hear the report of the musket, and she said: "George, what is the matter? Why didn't you shoot the crow? Well, he told her the story about being afraid. Grabbing hold of the musket, she said: "You will never be half the man that your father was. Give me that musket, and I will show you how to shoot it." She picked the musket up and leveled it and shot and, of course, the old lady, musket and all kept toppling over and over until she landed in a dry well. The little fellow ran up and said:

"Hang on to it, Granny; there are two more loads in it yet."

I imagine that that is why they allowed me to remain until every person else had said everything that they possibly could that was nice about all the employes of the House.

I happen to be picked for the purpose of performing a very pleasant duty for one of the State officials, the present Secretary of Internal Affairs, and also for one of the members of this House who is Chairman of the most important committee that we have in this General Assembly. I speak of those two men, and how I will mention them by name, the Hon. James F. Woodward, former chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives, and Hon. William J. McCaig, the chairman of the present Appropriations Committee. Every man on the Appropriations Committee and every member of this House and every employe about this Capitol knows the man that directs the work that necessarily must be done in that committee. I speak of the genial, affable, lovable and untiring worker, Mr. Albert Smith. (Applause). There never was a time when any member of the House could not go into the Appropriations Committee and approach Mr. Smith and get every courtesy that could possibly be extended to him. There never was a time when he was not willing to sit up night and day, working for the interests of every member in this House. There never was a time when he did not devote every minute of his time in order that the Appropriations Committee might be relieved of some responsibility and extend some favor and some courtesy. There never was a time when he was not ready to work night and day in order that his chief might be relieved of some responsibility, and when the session closed to show the best possible record that could be made.

The two men that I speak of, appreciating that work, appreciating his untiring efforts, appreciating everything that he could possibly do, felt that they ought to, in some way, remember Albert Smith, and that they ought to put him in a position that he, of course, would remember them, not as working for them as he has done, but as knowing that they appreciate his efforts and his untiring work. In order that they might do that they purchased for Mr. Smith a watch and chain so that he may be able to see them in it each hour of the day and each hour of the night and, if necessary to record the time, Mr. Smith will be able to remember the time that he devoted for their especial benefit.

Mr. Smith, on behalf of Mr. Woodward and Mr. McCaig, the past and present chairmen of the Appropriations Committee, I take great pleasure in presenting to you their token of esteem. As you look upon this watch and see the hands moving around, knowing that the time is passing on, may you ever be reminded that you are traveling along the road on that great level of time from whose bourne no traveler has yet returned. (Applause).

Chairman WONER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, the Hon. "Bennie" Golder.

Mr. GOLDER. Mr. Chairman and members of the House of Representatives: When "Jimmie" Walker made his presentation he said that it was his happy privilege to honor one who had been chosen from the chaste white roses in the House. It is my honor to pay homage to one who is chosen not from the chaste white roses but one who has been referred to by one of the members of the House as coming from that class known as the "Lily White Reformers," perhaps. Mr. Chairman, it was just this morning that I was told that I was to present to this persons of esteem a gift from the members of the House, but I hesitated for I knew that between the eastern and western sides of this House diplomatic relations had been broken off, war had broken out, and was raging in all its fury. Twice I tried to get the floor when suddenly some important communication, wrapped up in the form of a bomb, would strike me on the back of the head. So I hesitated; but the temptation has been too great. This has been a wonderful House, and good fellowship and generosity, yea, the generosity even extended outside of the walls of this House. It extended even to Senator Penrose and to Senator Vare. Senator Penrose gave to Senator Vare and Senator Vare gave to Senator Penrose, but neither one gave to the other just what he wanted. So it is surprising, in this last moment, that all the members should join and give to the people, but not to each other; and it is my happy privilege to-day to present on behalf of the House to our good friend, Quay Hewitt, a token of our appreciation and esteem. Originally this was supposed to be a birthday gift, and we started out seven or eight weeks ago, but the session was long and times were hard and it was just recently, because of the contribution made by Mr. Hewitt to fill up the necessary amount, that we were able to secure the gift for him. So at this time I deem it a pleasure to Mr. Hewitt—Mr. Chairman, I would like to know whether Mr. DiLemmo is in the House. There were just two men with me this morning when I got this present. One was Mr. DiLemmo and the other was Mr. Baldi. The ring is not here and I ask that both be brought to the bar of the House. (Here Mr. Baldi produced the present.)

On behalf of the members of the House, I desire to present to our good friend, Quay Hewitt, he to whom all women and all the noises are attracted, a ring, wishing that he may wear it with success and prosperity and all happiness, and when he comes back, if he should come back, we will expect to see him have that ring, if times are not too hard in the meantime. (Applause.)

Mr. QUAY HEWITT. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, this is indeed a surprise to me, I assure you, and a very pleasant one. Tom just made the statement that I was prevaricating, that I knew it was coming, but I did not. As I wear this ring in the future, I will always look into this beautiful diamond and there I will see crystalized the happy moments and friendships of the members of this House. I thank you very kindly.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Bennett.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Chairman and friends: I have been asking myself why the chairman of the Program Committee allotted this duty to me—your good friend and my good friend—just what I have done to deserve it. When I looked at this list of names that has been handed me, and after writing them out as they are in order in the directory of the House, I discovered that I had thirteen names; and there is just enough of superstition in me—which my good friend, Jimmy Walker, eloquent, subtle, persuasive Jimmy Walker, told you Cicero said was an undue fear of God—that I feel a good bit like a colored man who was employed in the City of Philadelphia in the City Hall there. The story is told by a man, possibly the most beloved Philadelphian, Bob McKenty, the warden of the Eastern Penitentiary, who knew the colored man very well. Bob was returning home one afternoon and the colored man was on the car. It happened to be a Thirteenth Street car. Bob knew the colored man's predilection for superstition, and he said, "Hello, George." The colored man said, "Good afternoon, Mr. McKenty." Mr. McKenty said to him, "Are you going home, George?" The colored man said, "Yes, sir; yes, sir; yes, sir, boss." Mr. McKenty said, "George, you know this is Thirteenth Street." "Yes, sir; yes, sir; that is right," said the colored man. Mr. McKenty said, "George, you are not superstitious, are you?" The colored man said, "No, sir; no, sir, Mr. McKenty, not very supestitious." "Well," said Mr. McKenty, "George, did you notice the number of this car?" George looked up and said, "Yes, sir; yes, sir, thirteen, thirteen; yes, sir, that's right, Mr. Bob, that's right." Mr. McKenty said, "Did you notice that we just passed Thompson Street, the thirteen hundred block north?" The colored man said, "Yes, sir; yes, sir, that's right." Mr. McKenty said, "By the way, look! That house over there is number 1313." The colored man said, "Yes, sir; yes, sir, that's right, Mr. McKenty. I tell you I am not a bit superstitious, but I am just getting off this car."

I am not a bit superstititious, my friends, about this "thirteen," because our Americanism is founded on thirteen, and it has stood the test of time magnanimously and gloriously. (Applause.)

The duty allotted to me is a mighty pleasant one. You have heard of our great Governor who by intelligence and studiousness and character is gloriously undergoing the acid test of service, and we all hope and pray he shall some day live to feel that that duty has been fulfilled. You have heard the speeches made in honor of our Speaker, a worthy and efficient Speaker. You have heard of that most companionable of men, that rubs elbows as easily as does the stream down the valley with the banks

—Tom Garvin. You have heard the various speeches and enconiums of praise that have been passed out here sincerely to-day. Politics is adjourned; so it should be at this time and this hour—adjourned forever as far as this session is concerned and good fellowship reign. (Applause.)

And we have leaders in this great State, we have leaders in this great Assembly; but like all things in creation, whether they be natural, or whether they be material, or whether they be invisible, the greatest thing that was ever invented has little invisible parts that are absolutely necessary. And so it is, my friends, and I know you will unanimously and enthusiastically endorse my expression when I say we have in this closing ceremony to-day, where good fellowship reigns, where the serious things of life are put aside, where we feel in looking back as we journey through the hills and valleys of this State six months ago, passing snow and ice and frozen streams, coming here as strangers to each other, that we have lived and associated here and come across these beautiful, verdant hills and valleys, come to see the golden grain ripe and ready for the harvest, and we have finally seen the coldness and strangeness pass away, and we stand ready to glean and gather the golden grain of friendship. (Applause.)

In this organization we have men who presided at this desk who are absolutely necessary and essential. I might name the man who is the Director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, whose knowledge of parliamentary procedure is undoubtedly requisite in any chamber that he would grace, James N. Moore, who needs no introduction. (Applause.) He is a silent man; my friends, he is a silent man; but his silence is as eloquent as are the glorious, silent things of earth. I take pleasure in presenting to Mr. Moore, as a token of affection and esteem, a purse of gold, not for its purchasing capacity, but because of the golden friendship that we feel in our hearts for Mr. Moore. (Applause.)

Secondly, to the Assistant Journal Clerk, who has more than devotedly and more than efficiently performed his duties to his superiors and to the members of this House, Archibald R. Newton, we present a purse of gold.

Thirdly, my friends, to the Reading Clerk, who has just so eloquently given you his heartfelt thanks for a sparkling diamond, he who starts his name with that of one promient in Pennsylvania politics, and the latter part of whose name surely means that he cuits his way to things—Quay Hewitt—may he hew always to the line—we present a purse of gold. (Applause.)

To the affable, ever-smiling, and ready-to-serve, Desk Clerk R. Albert Freiler, we present a purse of gold, as a token of our appreciation and esteem. (Applause.)

To his companion clerk, David W. Thomas, we also, my friends, present a purse of gold. (Applause.)

To the Message Clerk, who has always made good in his errands and messages and saw that the way was not clogged where his message journeys took him, George Offenbacher, always here, we present a purse of gold. (Applause.)

To the Assistant Reading Clerk, O. E. Martin, who so ably assists that able Hewitt, we present a purse of gold, my friends.

To the Sergeant-at-Arms, the only man in the House to whom I have any enmity, because he threatened—that big, fine, smiling, handsome Dan Hunihan—threatened to go to Philadelphia and drag me from my home. I may forgive Dan if he comes at some time privately and apologizes to my wounded feelings. However, just as true as our hearts ring out, we present to Dan this purse of gold as a remembrance. (Applause.)

There is another in this House that you seldom hear of, but yet he is the man who brings you your love messages; he who brings you that letter of affection from your wife, asking you whether you mailed the letter she gave you to mail last Monday; he is the man who brings you those bills which you forgot to pay before leaving your respective communities—the postmaster of this House, William C. Ritchie. We also present him with a purse of gold. (Applause.)

The Clerk to the Speaker, a position that calls for tact, earnestness and devotion, also receives the same token of remembrance and affection, Earle Kauffman. (Applause.)

And now, my friends, comes the name of a man, and a personality that has impressed me possibly more than any man that I have met in Harrisburg. If his life is one-half as beautiful as the expressions that flow so poetically, so beautifully, so enthusiastically, so patriotically from his lips, he is, to my mind, an ideal man. I feel, without fear of contradiction ,that when the members of this session go back to their homes, and go back over the Journals and start to read them, there is one man's speeches—they are not speeches, they are prayers that sound in my ears and will live in my memory like apples of gold in baskets of silver—any man who has stood in the House, no matter what his religion, no matter before what altar he prays, any man who has listened to our Chaplain must feel like the poet said:

"Shall I ask the brave soldier who fights by my side
For the cause of Mankind if our creeds agree?
Must I give up the Friend I have trusted and tried
If he kneels not before the same altar as me?
From the heretic girl of my soul must I fly
To seek somewhere else a more orthodox kiss?
No! cursed be the man and the law who would try Love, Virtue and Truth by a standard like this."

To our Chaplain, our beloved, imaginative Chaplain, a man of flowery words, of earnest and beautiful prayers, and of happy associations, we give not only with our hands, we give not only trivial amounts from our pockets, but we give to him the coin of our hearts' friendship with the golden coin in this purse, and not the mere dross of gold that we present him with. (Applause.)

To another, a man who has always served our needs, and they were many, lots of annoyances—some of you never saw him, I did not, but we know what his duties amounted to—I know that the page boy was constantly on his heels, not to satisfy the page boy's desires, but to satisfy the desires of you and me, transmitted by the page boy to the storeroom—we present to Frank D. Bowman, Superintendent of the Storeroom, as a token of our esteem, this purse of gold. (Applause.)

Now, my friends, in conclusion, las but not least, and a name that always lasts with us and has lasted with you, those of you who have known him longer than I have—we present to that most affable man, who is always on the job keeping order as chief page, a worthy chief, because the Good Book says—or rather the Great Master says—the Master of all service, the Master of all good, and the Master of all duty says, "Hhe who is greatest amongst you, let him be servant unto all." To the master chief of the page boys of this House, the lovable and serving Clarence E. Seiler, we present this golden symbol of our affection, and wish him long and happy years as chief page of this House. (Applause.)

My friends, as a new member of this House, coming from Philadelphia this session for the first time, I am deeply appreciative of my friends having called on me to perform this pleasant duty. No man ever lived who can lift the veil of to-morrow, and no man would dare to say what time shall hold for us. But this I know, as I go back to my home in God's best city, Philadeuphia, that is the symbol that all mankind looks to—other cities may stand for prosperity; Rome may have stood for the Coliseum and bloody Arena; Chicago may stand on the Great Lake for the center of things material in this country; New York may proudly claim her Great White Way and the honor of being the metropolis of the Union—but Philadelphia, Penn City, Philadelphia by the Delaware, Philadelphia of 1776, stands not only to Americans, but to all the earth, as the symbol of liberty, where the races of the earth are visiting to gain new inspirations that they may live under laws that are made as America makes them here. I am going back to Philadelphia, God's city; the city of liberty; the city of true greatness, good women and sterling men—I am going back there and take with me a heart full of happiness on account of the friendships I have made here that, God willing, I shall never forget. I thank you. (Applause.)

The CHAIRMAN. This now concludes our ceremonies, and I yield the Chair to the Speaker.

SPEAKER SPANGLER IN THE CHAIR.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information as to the present situation of Senate Bill No.

993, file folio of the Senate 6067, the bill known as the Compensation Bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state that the bill was amended in the House and messaged to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this bill passed the Senate and came to the House, and when in the House committee there was taken from it section 309, and on second reading on Wednesday night or Tuesday night the section was restored to the bill and the bill became the same as it was when it left the Senate. I am informed now that that bill has been messaged by this House to the Senate and it is there now improperly. This bill being of vast importance in its nature, is not now in its proper legislative course and this position should be messaged to the Senate

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state that an amendment was inserted in the bill by the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler).

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, that amendment was the restoring of the bill to the condition it was in when it came from the Senate. There has been no new matter whatever placed in that bill.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, my recollection as to that bill is that when it was on second reading, Mr. Milner offered an amendment to the bill, which was to provide for a possible expenditure—

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, after this bill passed the Senate, it was referred to the Ways and Means Committee of the House and the committee reported that bill to the House by dropping from that bill Section 309. After a conference with the Governor and the Ways and Means Committee representing the United Mine Workers (Mr. Fowler), the committee reported to the House, and then when the bill was on second reading introduced an amendment which only re-inserted Section 309; and therefore that put the bill in the same condition as when it was committed to the House. When we passed the bill yesterday there was no amendment offered and, as the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott) says, it should now be on its way to the Governor.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I will suggest to the Chair, if I may, that a messenger be sent to the Senate to secure the bill and restore it back to the House. This is legislation of very great importance. It involves an amendment to the Compensation Law, and enemies have been lurking on all sides of this bill and the bill now at this late hour is in jeopardy. If it is placed where it is now, improperly in the Senate, it is indeed in a position of great danger. Mr. Speaker, this House has the bill in its care and should have possession of it.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott) state that the bill is at this time improperly in the Senate? Why is the bill improperly in the Senate?

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, my answer to the Chair is that the bill is improperly in the Senate. My answer to the Chair's interrogation is that because the bill passed the Senate in its proper form and came to this House and one of our subordinate committees took from the bill a portion of it and the House repudiated that action and restored the bill back to its condition as it was when it came from the Senate. The only way that the bill would go from this House to the Senate would be for concurrence in an amendment. There is no amendment to be concurred in and to send it to the Senate now places it there improperly. Let me say further, in answer to the Chair's interrogation, that when that bill got improperly before the Senate immediately there was moved to have a conference committee appointed for the purpose of having that bill referred to it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to inform the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott) that on second reading the amendment to the bill was inserted by the House and the bill came up on third reading in its regular order, was passed by the House and regularly messaged to the Senate for concurrence in the amendment inserted by the House, and the bill is now in the Senate.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to state that while I at no time have meant to reflect on the integrity of the Chair or the integrity of any members of this House on the action on this bill, I take it that the bill is improperly in the Senate; and as I have arisen in my place on a question of personal privilege, as one interested in this legislation, I desire to express to you, personally, and to the members of this House great fear on the condition of that bill now. Mr. Speaker, the only possible control that the Senate would have upon that bill would be if we had altered any portion of it by legislative enactment. No alteration has been made in that bill by this House. We sanctioned the action of the Senate when we voted our approval of the vote of the Senate, and there is only one other branch of the government that has the right to have that bill properly in its hands and that is the Executive of this State. To send that bill to the Senate now is for no good to the bill. Mr. Speaker, that bill was being menaced since its appearance in this Legislature many weeks ago—

The SPEAKER. The Chair will call the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott) to order. The bill has taken its course as every bill has done. The Chair will further state that the gentleman has no right to impugn the motives of the Senate in any way.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I am on my feet as a question of personal privilege. I am not impugning the motives of the Senate at the present time. I am here to express the highest privilege that I have, and if I am to understand that the Speaker of the House deprives me, by his ruling, as a member of this House, of the right to call the attention of the Chair and the members of this House, on a question of personal privilege, to the fear and danger that I believe lurks by the side of legislation that I have supported, I take it that I misunderstand the ruling of the Chair and the Chair will allow me to proceed upon my high right of personal privilege to proceed to call the attention of the Chair to the situation of the legislation which I have voted upon. Mr. Speaker, I ask the right to permit me to proceed.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed and confine himself to his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, when this bill came to this Legislature many weeks ago it was surrounded by enemies that sought to strike it down. The Governor of Pennsylvania asserted his executive power and said that the amendments offered by the working people of Pennsylvania were to be inserted into that bill. He stood manfully and honestly by his promises to the working men. That bill came from the Senate committee unharmed. That bill came from the Senate unharmed. That bill came to this House and then the labor interests watched every step of that bill. They know the legislative trick that was being played upon that bill; they knew the legislative trap that was set to put that bill helpless so that not only the bill could be assassinated but that the great Governor of Pennsylvania could be held up by the working men as one who had not kept his word. When the question was asked a few moments ago whether or not the little innocent one-hundred-dollar amendment had not been offered, that was where they failed to meet the strong support that was given the bill by the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler) and those representing the labor interests. It is no new thing to have legislation entrapped such as they seek to entrap this bill today. It is no thing unknown by the powerful lobby that would kill this bill, to lure it back to a conference committee and there strike it down in the last hours of the session of this Legislature. Mr. Speaker, many a piece of legislation has met an untimely fate in the darkness of the conference committee. We are here on trial before the working class of Pennsylvania. We are here charged with carrying out their good faith; we are here charged with keeping with them good faith. Mr. Speaker, the working people of Pennsylvania are not trusting today to those who fought the Compensation Bill in the many years gone by; who killed the Compensation Bill in the Senate in 1911, and who only permitted the Compensation Bill to become a law in 1913 when then a fearless Governor demanded that the bill become a law. The working people are not trusting those who would have kept that bill from the statute books then. Mr. Speaker, those same enemies—they are paid agents—work on the side lines of this House. They lurk at the door of the Senate; they seek to have this bill taken improperly from this House and placed in a conference committee. There is no power in this House to do what has been done. I don't care what member ,high or low, member or employe, that attempts to say that that bill was amended. I again say his statement. Mr. Speaker, let me say on my high privilege as a member, you watch by your side when suggestion is made that this bill is properly in the Senate. You will answer after we adjourn to the people as to the integrity of us all. I do not, for one, intend to go back to my district where I am raised from a boy with the working man and look him in the face and say, "You maimed and injured the working man, I have betrayed you." This bill may be slaughtered; this bill may be strangled; this bill may be crushed down, but it is not going to be without a protest from at least one member of this House. Mr. Speaker, this bill is not here by the grace of the employers; this bill is here by the force of organized labor. This bill is here because labor became so powerful when it called out to protect the child labor and to protect the injured laborer, that those, who for years kept down such laws, were compelled under a rising public indignation to finally give this Commonwealth these reform measures. But the same enemies lurk the same enemies live and the same enemies are powerful—yes, so powerful that sometimes they lure you laboring people from those who have been your true friends. But we protest against the killing of this bill, not because we complain of the conduct of some; we protest because in our great city of Philadelphia we have there, in the districts of some who do not stand by them in this House, we have there honest working people who depend upon the forces and judgment and honesty of those of us who represent Philadelphia in this House. I can but protest as a member; I can but rise in my place on the high privilege of personal protest and call upon you, the Chair, to send your messenger to the Senate and bring back the bill that is improperly in the Senate, the bill that belongs here on its way to the Governor's desk. Mr. Speaker, this is a matter of importance; this is a matter that affects all of us. On my personal privilege, I make this call and I say now that if, unheeded, the bill is allowed to remain in the Senate, there is only one other course for this House to take, and that is, to offer a concurrent resolution to the House and to the Senate to return the bill. If that is not done, Mr. Speaker, God help that bill.

Mr. SINCLAIR. Mr. Speaker, last night I was sitting here in the hall when the gentleman from Chester (Mr. Hollingsworth) came over with the amendments and gave them to the gentleman from Lancaster (Mr. Hess). He said, "I think I can get these amendments in," and it was not fifteen minutes afterwards until the bill passed with amendments. I think we ought to play fair in this matter.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise at this time to a point of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of personal privilege.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I will state that in the beginning, when this bill came to the Legislature, we had taken the matter up with the Governor of this State. Labor had agreed to consult with the Governor of this State and to do all in its power to have all sides agree. We drafted the bill with the Compensation Commission, and that bill, it seems, was not satisfactory to the opponents of labor. Other conferences were held and we then agreed to sit in with the other side, and they absolutely refused. When the other side had refused to sit at the conference table with labor, the Attorney General was then ordered to draft a bill of his own. This was done, and I want to say to you, my friends, that for every foot that the other side came ahead, we went back five feet. I want to say to you that this is not the bill that labor wanted—far from it. This bill is far from being as good as the Compensation Laws in other States, but we, in order to satisfy everybody, agreed to the present bill. The bill was passed through the Senate and on its way here. It was then amended and then it was agreed upon by all sides that this bill should be amended back into the form that it passed the Senate. We did not put anything into that bill. The Senate Conference Committee was picked this morning, and up to this time they have failed to detect any difference in the bill now from what it was when they passed it; but we feel that if this bill is left there, it is for the sole purpose of taking away the provisions that we have agreed to. Mr. Hess came to me last evening with an amendment that they wish to have placed in the bill ,to provide one hundred dollars for the hospitals. We showed to Mr. Hess and to the members that were interested that if that one hundred dollar amendment would go in, it would send the bill back to the Senate for an understanding and a conference committee would then be picked on it. We refused to permit the amendment to go in. We then got in touch with the leaders of the Senate and the leaders of the House, and we got in touch with the Compensation Commission and they pointed out to the satisfaction of the people that wish to have the one hundred dollar amendment injected for the hospitals that the Compensation Commission would pass a ruling which would grant that one hundred dollars to the hospitals, in order that it would not disturb the bill. I wish to state, my friends, that I believe that something should be done here in order to have this bill returned to us, and assure the laboring forces of this State that you intend to play on the level with them. I said before, in fighting on other measures, that the reason that the laboring men were mistrusting us so much is because of little trickeries of this kind. We must restore the confidence in our people, that you mean to do the exact thing with them. I hope and trust the members of this House will stand up and see that this bill is not mutilated.

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, I am entirely in sympathy with the thought of the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler). I want to see this bill passed in the form in which it came here from the Senate. But the gentleman from Philadelphia, either mistakently or without examining the bill as amended, or for the purpose of making a grandstand play in order to impugn the motives of the Speaker and the other officers of this House, did not properly examine the bill or he would have found that there are amendments to the Senate Bill, and the amendments were offered by the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler). Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I move that the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott) reflecting upon the Speaker and the other officers of the House, be stricken from the records, because the bill is properly in the Senate, the amendments having been made as offered by Mr. Fowler, and the bill has gone to the Senate for concurrence.

POINT OF INFORMATION.

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of information at this time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of information.

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, if a bill coming from the Senate is amended in the House by only striking out a section, and then the House reinserts that section, after we have passed that bill, is there anything in it then for the consideration of the Senate?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would state in answer, that if a bill is messaged to the Senate for the purpose of concurrence, it would have to be reprinted by the House.

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, in order to set the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Dawson) right, I wish to say that there was an amendment made, and that was not the only amendment. The word "and" was stricken out. The amendment that I referred to was the word stricken from the bill, and it was an amendment offered by the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler). There is no intention on the part of anybody, as I understand it, to hold up this bill or to try to stop it, but the Chair has ruled, and properly so, that an amendment having been made to the bill as it came over from the Senate, it is necessary for the Senate to concur in that amendment, and it is not the amendment to which the gentleman has referred, the reinserting of a section stricken from the bill in committee. It was an amendment to the bill. Don't misunderstand my purpose in this. If there are any persons who have ulterior motives, I am not in sympathy with them; but I do want to see the proper officers of this House upheld in the true performance of their duty, and I say the bill is properly in the Senate for concurrence in the amendment made by the House.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. Dithrich).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. Dithrich) permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman what line and what page the new amendment to that bill is on?

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, I refer the gentleman—

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I want to say that the Conference Committee on the other side have failed to detect one word misplaced in this bill; and I want to say further that those amendments were offered to insert the exact words that were stricken from the bill before. There was a typographical error in the bill which we brought to the attention of the desk, and they marked that in red ink and they agreed to send it back to the printer in order that we would not have to offer a new amendment. It was brought to the attention of the clerks at the desk about the word "and" and the letter "a." I believe they were the two. The amendments were exact.

Mr. HESS. I have had some experience with this bill and I resent the statement made to this House that the manufacturing interests of this State are enemies, are lurking in the dark to stab this legislation in the back, and I will prove it to you in a very few minutes. When the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler) offered the amendments which he did offer and this House saw fit to insert them in the bill, the gentleman from Chester (Mr. Hollingsworth) was scheduled to offer the amendment fixing the maximum hospital fee at one hundred dollars, and it was unanimously agreed between the representatives of labor and the representatives of the manufacturers that both of those amendments were to go into the bill at one and the same time. Mr. Hollingsworth was ill and not in his place at the time when the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler) offered his amendments, and for that reason the particular amendment desired by the manufacturers was not inserted at that time. When this bill was being neared on the calendar, coming up in its order, I went to Mr. Fowler and asked Mr. Fowler whether or not it was a fact that they had agreed that if we permitted his amendments to go into the bill, the labor interests would permit the amendment in the hands of Mr. Hollingsworth to go into the bill. He said, "That is the fact, and I have no opposition to it."

In order to expedite the passage of this measure and not to delay it—in other words, all this grand-stand play about the interests affected by this legislation lurking around in shadowy places to stab this legislation in the back is an untruth, and is villifying the manufacturers of this Commonwealth, and I prove that by asking Mr. Fowler if it is not the fact that we finally agreed that that thing chould be accomplished by the board making a ruling after this bill, without the amendment, had become a law that the maximum of the hospital fee should be fixed at one hundred dollars. There was no disposition on the part of the manufacturing interests of this State to stab, to mutilate, to detain, to defer or to in any way interfere with the passage of this legislation.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I believe the members of this House always found me to be truthful—

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler) will yield for a moment, I will make an explanation.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler) yield for a moment?

Mr. FOWLER. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. Dithrich) will proceed.

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, when I called attention of the House to what I thought had been a change the Assistant Resident Clerk and my colleague, Mr. Steedle, had said at that time that they had found the word "and" stricken from the bill, but we find upon further examination that it is not, so the gentleman is correct in his statement that there is not a change in the bill as it came from the Senate.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman to say that he was wrong in his statement?

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, I was wrong in my statement that the word "and" had been stricken from the bill.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I was always truthful. I want to say that Mr. Hess did not understand me when he said that we had agreed. Mr. Gawthrope, of the Attorney General's Office, had asked a few of us laboring men to come over and introduce the amendment spoken of by Mr. Hess. Our attorney, Mr. Deever, and Mr. Adam C. Schaeffer, a member of the House, were there present. We took the amendment and came back and were not pleased because we feared by the amendment going in, that it would be sent back to the Senate and there a Conference Committee would be picked. I took back the amendment to Mr. Gawthrope, and told him that we would not introduce this amendment, that he could get someone else if he wished. That is what we did; and when Mr. Hess came last night I absolutely refused to introduce this amendment or allow it to go in without unanimous consent. We did, however, take it up with various Senators on the other side, as I said before, and came to the agreement whereby the Compensation Board would give the one hundred dollars to the hospitals.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of refreshing the gentleman's memory, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler) permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether it is not a fact that after it was conceded that the bill should not be attempted to be amended when it reached third reading that we at first agreed it should pass third reading, and should then be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment to insert that amendment, fixing the hospital fee limit?

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, the understanding the gentleman had was with the Attorney General and Mr. Deever. I was not speaking to the gentleman at the time. I was present, and we agreed that we would go over to the other side—if you want to ask a question and answer it yourself, go ahead.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I had no understanding with the Attorney General. I had an understanding with the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler) and Mr. Deever. Now what was that understanding?

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, the understanding was that we would not give the gentleman from Lancaster (Mr. Hess) unanimous consent to act on this amendment—

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, and what was the offset?

Mr. FOWLER. We said, however, to you that we played fair with you and wanted to play fair with the members of the Senate, and we would go over there and if we came to the understanding that the bill would not be attacked, that we would go as far as we could with you.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman not recall that it was the understanding at the time that the bill should pass third reading unamended, and should be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of inserting the hospital fee amendment?

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I said that if the members of labor and the friends we had in the Senate would agree, I would have no objections.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, and then does the gentleman not know that following that interview, that Mr. Deever and several other gentlemen interested in this legislation called upon myself and requested that instead of recalling the bill from the Governor for the purpose of inserting that hospital maximum amendment, Mr. Mackey, who was also present, guaranteed that the Board would convene immediately after this bill became a law and pass a ruling fixing the maximum hospital fee at one hundred dollars?

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I said that when we went over to the Senate we took this up with several of the Senators, and we went over it—

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, that conference had nothing whatever to do with it—

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman wants to ask and answer his own questions, all right, go ahead.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not answering the question at all.

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I am going to answer it, and I say that we took the matter over, or talked it over rather, and they suggested that it would be all right. They said that they perhaps would recall it from the Governor themselves; and after we got Mr. Mackey in, they agreed that it was all right ,that Mr. Mackey and his Board would go to work and pass a resolution to give the people represented by the gentleman from Lancaster (Mr. Hess) just exactly what they were asking for.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler).

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I would ask, does the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler) know who suggested the proposition of a ruling by the Board?

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, I am not at liberty to give the names of the parties that we were in conference with over there.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler).

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I would ask, does the gentleman from Lackawanna know that that suggestion came from his attorney, Mr. Deever, accompanied by Mr. Mackey?

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, nothing of the kind. The suggestion came from members of the Senate.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna (Mr. Fowler).

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I would ask, does the gentleman from Lackawanna know he was a member of the committee that called on me for the purpose of that suggestion?

Mr. FOWLER. Mr. Speaker, after they had come to that understanding we came back to put the proposition up to Mr. Hess, and asked him if he was satisfied, because we realized that at any time he could have taken the floor and asked that the bill be recalled from the Governor, and he was perfectly satisfied with the arrangements reached in the Senate.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has told you that he was present and recalls when that suggestion was made, and that the suggestion came from the interests he represented.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state that this question is going rather far afield. The Chair is informed that the bill is now in the Senate; that it was messaged to the Senate in its regular order, with the amendments of the House. The Senate has the bill at the present time. The Chair is informed that the Senate has nonconcurred in the amendments of the House and that the Senate has requested a conference committee be appointed and has already appointed a conference committee on its part. Up to the present time the bill has not been messaged to the House, and until the bill is messaged to the House, the Chair cannot take any action in regard to the matter. The Chair would suggest therefore that further discussion of this measure be suspended until the House receives the bill in its regular order from the Senate, and then the House can take such action, as regards the Senate's action, as it sees fit.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, has the House finished with its regular course of business for the day?

The SPEAKER. It has not.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, for the day?

The SPEAKER. It has not.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, what is the present order of business? The calendar is now clean.

The SPEAKER. We are awaiting extracts from the journal of the Senate.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that we return to the order of business for the entertainment of resolutions.

The SPEAKER. What is the nature of the resolution?

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, a motion upon this same bill under discussion. I have made a motion to simply return back to that order of business. I personally submit my motion to the Chair; but I think as a matter of parliamentary procedure, we should now go back to that order of business.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman desires to suspend the rule then, is that the idea?

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, that is practically the same motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read for the information of the House.

The Clerk read the motion as follows:

Moved by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Scott, seconded by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Glass, that Rule 8, pertaining to the regular order of business of the House, be suspended for the present for the purpose of considering at this time a resolution to be offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Scott; after which said rule shall be restored with full force and effect.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION FOR RETURN OF BILL BY SENATE.

Mr. SCOTT offered the following resolution, which was twice read and considered:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Resolved by the House of Representatives, (if the Senate concur), that Senate Bill No. 993, (House Bill No. 1869), file folio 6067, entitled "An act to amend an act approved the second day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred and thirty-six) entitled "An Act defining the liability of an employer to pay damage for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation and providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder" and providing when the same shall become effective" be returned by the Senate to the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this resolution is to recall this bill back from the Senate, but, Mr. Speaker, it is going to put this House in this position, and the House should understand it. We hold, Mr. Speaker, that that bill is improperly in the Senate and that it has been improperly messaged to the Senate. That has been admitted on the floor of the House by one of the gentlemen who says he is not unfriendly to this bill, but complained about my remarks to the Chair and to the House on the gorund that the bill had been amended. He rises in place and admits that he had not read the bill, that his information was mere hearsay, and he corrected his statement. Therefore, the Chair, having ruled on the information that there had been an actual amendment and the Chair is informed by the gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. Dithrich) that there was no amendment, and if the ruling of the Chair stands that this bill is not now in the custody of the House, and if the Chair refuses to send the messenger to the Senate to bring back the bill because it was improperly messaged there, and messaged there under a mistaken idea as to the condition of the bill, then we are put in this very unfortunate position: We are compelled to offer a concurrent resolution. Now this House can vote unanimously for this resolution, but, gentlemen, we have to go to the Senate to have them pass on our resolution. This House, Mr. Speaker, loses one of its great powers, its dignity, by being compelled to bend the knee to the Senate in carrying out its own prerogatives. Mr. Speaker, that bill belongs to this House. We have stamped it with our approval, and we should not be compelled to ask the Senate to concur in our resolutions; but if the Chair persists in—

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state for the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott) that the bill is a Senate Bill and properly belongs in the Senate, and it is in the Senate at the present time.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, yes, it belongs in the Senate for the purpose of having the signature of the presiding officer, but not for the purpose of having it in a conference committee. We pass the bill and message it back to the Senate to the effect that we voted their bill correct, and the only other power that exists in the Senate is for the presiding officer to add his signature to that bill, and you then attach your signature, and then the bill, signed by the heads of the two legislative bodies, goes to the executive table for executive approval or executive veto. I will never appeal from the decision of the Chair; I will never place the Speaker in the position of having his fellow members outvote his ruling. In him lies that great responsibility of judgment, but I am compelled to offer this resolution. I hope, Mr. Speaker ,that the Chair can see his way clear to ask the mover of this resolution to withdraw it and let the Speaker consider it, to go into consultation with his own judgment to see whether he is not making, in his last hour here, a great mistake. Mr. Speaker, great power exists in this body, the power of representing the people. We are a power that is independent of the Senate; we are a power that is a greater power than the Senate; we come closer to the people; we are their direct representatives. We should not be compelled to ask them to concur in our resolution to bring back this bill. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Lancaster has called me to task, as has the young man from Allegheny, because of my remarks. I want to say, Mr. Speaker, that I served on the floor of this House when you came here a young man. I have respect for you; I respect you as an individual; I respect you as a member of this House; I respect you as Speaker, and I voted for you for that great honor. Mr. Speaker, when one rises in his place and attempts to criticize me for remarks that I have made, I want to say in answer to him that there is no power big enough to stop my criticizing even one that would be near and dear to me. We are here with a great prerogative; we are here representing the people. Mr. Speaker, I never criticized you as an individual nor any member in this House. I have high respect for you. I have served in Congress as a member of Congress during a great history-making period when we declared war, but I consider it a greater honor to stand here in this House where I started as a member twenty years ago than to be a member of the lower house at Washington. I have no criticism and I don't criticize you but I criticize the impulsive, unsupported remark made by the gentleman from Allegheny, but I pass it without further consideration. But I find a man of experience who for years has been here in this House, a leader among his people in his home, a leader in this House, attempt to rise and defend this character of legislative execution, this character of assassination, that he and I have sat side by side so often and seen carried on—and I confess when I was lined up with another interest many a time being part in helping sink the knife and drive legislation to death. He says that this association is not opposed to this legislation. I will call his mind back, Mr. Speaker, to the days of the sessions long past when the child labor bill—

The SPEAKER. The Chair will request the gentleman to confine himself to the resolution that is before the House at the present time.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I will bow to the ruling of the Chair, I will confine myself to the matter here that is under discussion; but I take it that if I am attacked by a member on the floor, who attempts to defend those whom I say are lurking to kill this bill, it is within my legislative right to answer him. I will confine myself clearly to the relevancy of this resolution. This resolution, Mr. Speaker, has been offered for the purpose of bringing the votes of this House to overcome that which the gentleman from Lancaster (Mr. Hess) defends, when he says, Mr. Speaker, that the manufacturer is not against this bill. I say to him to turn his mind's eye back session after session, when the same bill was killed session after session in the committee, when the Child Labor Bill was struck down, when the Workingman's Compensation Bill was struck down, when they were killed, and I ask him whether that man who is now known as the head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association,—whether he did not work on the floor of this House, session after session, to kill the bill. Did you find him supporting this legislation in 1911, when we put it through the House, or was he working in an attempt to kill it?

The SPEAKER. The Chair will call the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott) to order. The Chair will not again call the gentleman's attention to his lack of order. The gentleman will confine himself to the question.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, there is no question but that I will obey absolutely the Chair's ruling. I have been taught, in years of legislative life, to respect the Chair, but Mr. Speaker, I am not to be deterred in my remarks by the hoots of those that are here. Mr. Speaker, I helped in times past to start those hoots when some one rose in his place and advanced legislation that those of us thought should be stricken down. But this is a resolution that not only protects the working man, it protects the integrity of the Chair, it protects the integrity of this House. Mr. Speaker, no member on the floor of this House can rise in his place and honestly and logically oppose this resolution. I do not care whether it is the view of the individual members of this House that this legislation is right or wrong. That is not the question. The question is whether we, as a body, can allow our vote to be taken to the Senate, and there either sanctioned or killed, when we have amended this bill. Mr. Speaker, the hours of this session are growing to an end. We are all going home, Mr. Speaker, but we don't want to deceive ourselves that we are going home, all of us, with those kindly, brotherly feelings that were expressed here a few minutes ago. We are not. The reason we are not is because we represent different thoughts; we represent different views; we see different lights. Some of us have been led, Mr. Speaker, through the depth of darkness and brought to light in different degrees. Some of us, as we grow older feel a greater responsibility, some of us look back on our young, coltish actions in the House with a feeling of sorrow. We are not going back home to step with the coltish lines that still exist; we are going back home to advance the desire of that which is right.

I have found in my twenty years of legislative experience that your working man is often wrong, for he sometimes is a fire-eater, but when you analyze it down to the bottom, you find that his whole thought and urgency is to have a living condition in the community. Mr. Speaker, we are going home in a few hours, and we are going to answer for our judgment. There is one thing that we should not be compelled to apologize for, and that is for the sending of this labor bill to death, that was fought in the committee to the last ditch by those who are now attempting to ditch it Mr. Speaker, this is no new school, this is no new action, it is nothing new to kill a bill in the conference committee. This bill has no right in a conference committee. I would like to see this House stand up a man and demand that the bill be brought back from the Senate, that the Speaker send his messenger there for it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to inform the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott) that the Chair is informed that Messrs. Eyre, Vare and Graff were appointed as a Conference Committee to compare the bill ,to see if the bill is the original bill that left the Senate and the bill will be returned to the House at 5.00 o'clock.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I am satisfied to allow my resolution to lie on the table, if the Chair can see his way clear to bring back our bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state that the Senate is not in session at the present time.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the indulgence of the Speaker to say, whether the Senate is in session or not, our bill is there wrong; it is not in the Senate. It is in the hands of some clerk who is irresponsible. He has no legislative right to the bill, and if it has been sent to the Senate it has no power to be in any committee. They cannot compare the bill; they cannot confer on the bill. The only power they have is for the presiding officer to sign that bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will inform the gentleman from Philadelphia that the House has no right to demand from the Senate a bill that is legally and properly in the hands of the Senate and ask that it should be returned to the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott)?

A vote was taken and the Speaker declared the "noes" appear to have it.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say this: I take it that while possibly the Chair might feel that in the argument there is reflection, there is no reflection and I hope the Chair will not at this last hour precipitate this matter into anything such as a factional dispute. It is not that. If the Chair is now properly informed that this bill has been sent to the Senate and is there to be compared, the Chair can see clearly that there is no such course to take and that there is no such right that exists. If that is so, we could take every bill that the Senate has passed as a House bill and compel it to be brought back here to be compared. The comparer has no power. Now, Mr. Speaker, the Chair can see clearly that the Chair is laboring under misinformation.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is not laboring upder any misinformation. The Chair is ready to put the question on the resolution of the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott).

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the Chair was informed in the first place that there had been an amendment to the bill and that the bill was sent to the Senate for the purpose of concurrence in that amendment. Then the Chair was informed that the bill was in a conference committee, and now he gets the information that it was sent to a compare committee. I can say to the Chair now that I have just received information from the Lieutenant-Governor, presiding over the Senate, the Secretary of the Senate, and leaders of the Senate, who have all said that the bill is improperly in the Senate and that they cannot consider it. All that we need in order to set ourselves right is for the Chair to send the messenger, who improperly messaged the bill, and have him go over there and ask for it. If they refuse to give it to us, then we can force our resolution.

MOTION TO LAY RESOLUTION ON THE TABLE.

Mr. Speaker, for the time being, I move to lay my resolution on the table.

Mr. GLASS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I am reliably informed that the Chairman of the committee to which this bill was given, has absolutely refused to consider it in the Senate, as it does not belong there. I believe the Chair should indulge the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott), to correct an error made. we are all human, and sometimes men err. I beleve this is just a question of sending the messenger to the Senate, and the bill will be in the possession of the House.

Th SPEAKER. The Chair will state for the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Cox) that if the situation is as he states, we should receive a message from the Senate to that effect. Surely the Chair cannot send over to the Senate and demand that the bill be returned without the consent of the Senate.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I believe that if the messenger is sent there, I do not believe there is any question but that the bill will be sent back. I am reliably informed by a Senator, just a moment ago, that this is the condition existing in the Senate now.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, it occurs to me that the question that we have had under discussion ,which has led to the introduction of the resolution, is just in this shape: When the bill passed the House those in charge thought that an amendment had been made. and the bill was messaged at that time to the Senate with the information that the House had passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate was requested. I am just informed, Mr. Speaker, that when the Senate received such a message, they doubted that the bill was amended, that they were required to concur, and they have simply laid the matter to one side, until they convene at five o'clock, to find out whether the House is correct. My suggestion to the members and to the Speaker is this: That the resolution of the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Scott) lie upon the table until the Senate convenes, and this committee will certainly find that the House has improperly messaged the bill, and it will be returned to us. If not, we will go over there and get it. I think there is nothing else to do, and that is my suggestion.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Session 1919 — 123rd of the General Assembly

Vol. 5. HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1919. No. 71.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, June 26, 1919.

The Senate met at 1 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Edward E. Beidleman) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis offered the following prayer:

Almighty God we thank Thee for the sterling manhood represented in this Senate; we thank Thee for the diversified talents and the sincere purposes they bring to the legislative problems of this great Commonwealth; in this they are surpassed by no other State Senate in the United States. We are grateful to Thee for the charming fellowship we have enjoyed; for the precious ties of friendship we have formed; the mutual benefits we have received in the sacred and uplifting associations.

We share our mutual joys,
Our mutual burdens bear;
And often for each other flows
The sympathizing tear.

When we asunder part,
It gives us inward pain,
But we shall still be joined in heart
And hope to meet again.

We pray Thy blessings upon all the members of this Senate and their families; upon all the employes and their families; upon all the people of this great State. These favors we ask in the name of Him who taught us when we pray to say: Our Father, who are in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy name, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth, as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil; for Thine is the kingdom, and the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

RECESS.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until ten o'clock this morning.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS.

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make reports from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. McCONNELL from the Committee on Judiciary Special re-reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 1229 (House Bill No. 1393), entitled:

An Act requiring persons copartnerships associations and corporations distributing selling or leasing motion picture films and stereopticon views or slides to exhibitors in this Commonwealth to secure licenses from the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors to do business and to make certain deposits in money or securities with such board for the protection of their exhibitors and giving said board power to revoke licenses and certificates of approval for the exhibition of films slides or views.

Also from the Committee on Judiciary Special re-reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 72 (House Bill No. 1162), entitled:

An Act authorizing banking companies incorporated and organized under the laws of the Commonwealth and having capital stock at least equal to the capital stock which trust companies are required by law to have to act in any fiduciary capacity in which trust companies organized under the laws of the Commonwealth are empowered to act and prescribing the method of acquiring such rights

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1229 (House Bill No. 1393), entitled:

An Act requiring persons copartnerships associations and corporations distributing selling or leasing motion picture films and stereopticon views or slides to exhibitors in this Commonwealth to secure licenses from the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors to do business and to make certain deposits in money or securities with such board for the protection of their exhibitors and giving said board power to revoke such licenses and certificates of approval for the exhibition of films slides or views

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I second the motion.
The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,
The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1229 (House Bill No. 1393), entitled:

An Act requiring persons copartnerships associations and corporations distributing selling or leasing motion picture films and steropticon views or slides to exhibitors in this Commonwealth to secure licenses from the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors to do business and to make certain deposits in money or securities with such board for the protection of their exhibitors and giving said board power to revoke such licenses and certificates of approval for the exhibition of films slides or views

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?
Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, for the benefit of the members of the Senate, this bill is an act to protect the moving picture show houses. In other words, it protects them that they can purchase their goods and furnish security, whether it be bond or real estate security, in connection with any contract they have. Under the existing rule of the producers it is a cash deposit and runs into thousands and thousands of dollars, which the producers retain in their custody. If under the contract that producer cannot produce the picture for a year or more he retains that cash deposit for that time. It is a protection for the moving picture show houses, whether it can be effective or not it is a question between the one who sells and the other who used the goods. We believe that this is a good law. It will allow them to be put on the same basis as any other purchaser of merchandise. In other words, he can furnish proper security in a contract.
Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, the way I understand it protects the moving picture show proprietor.
Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, the show houses are protected in reference to the cash deposit in lieu of any other kind of security that they can furnish.
And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO THE HONORABLE CLARENCE J. BUCKMAN.

Mr. PATTON. Mr. President, in a long legislative career I have met and sat under the administrations of various presidents of parliamentary ability. I have met with fair ones, unfair ones, with strong, courageous ones and weak ones, but let me say, sir, that when I became connected with the Senate as a member and found the congenial Frank McClain, the Lieutenant-Governor of the State, who was the President of the Senate, backed up by the administration of Charles Kline from Pittsburgh, and following him yourself, when you were elected to the position of Lieutenant-Governor and became the official head of the Senate, I have come to the conclusion that never have I met three men in the position of President of this great Senate of Pennsylvania who have been more fair and more loyal in the administration of their office. The Senate having been deprived of its President Pro Tempore turned for a new one and they went to the speed king of legislation, the Quaker Senator from Langhorne, and in him they have made no mistake, for the great questions that have come before the Senate in the last session, chiefly the Woman's Suffrage Amendment which was adopted by ourselves to our own Constitution, the ratification of the Woman's Suffrage Amendment to the Constitution of America, the Prohibition Amendment, the great struggle, over the Philadelphia Charter, and the passion and prejudice of faction alien that were before this Chamber, were handled by him with marked ability. In appreciation of the kind words and acts of the Senator from Bucks County, in appreciation of his signal ability and fairness the members of this Chamber have asked me to present to him a slight token of their appreciation, and to say to him that every day of his life hereafter they have their hopes that he will meet with but health and prosperity, as he passes down the line toward the end with his charming bride, that he may have health, happiness and peace to see him to the end. The good wishes of every Senator in this body go with you, Senator Buckman, and I thank you for the opportunity of handing you this token.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, and colleagues of the Senate of Pennsylvania; I am overwhelmed with feelings of embarrassment and gratification at the treatment that has been accorded me by the members of this body. This is the end of my fifth session in the Senate of Pennsylvania. It has been to me a strenuous session, but I am glad to be able so say that not only in my position as President Pro Tempore of the body, but in my position as a Senator n the floor, there has not been a word of unpleasantness between myself and any member of this body, and that means a great deal in a legislative body like this, where various interests are represented and those various interests must necessarilly clash as they do in the legislation which comes before us.

You my friends, have been more than kind to me in the past. You have honored me on two occasions by making me Chairman of your Appropriations Committee and again during the present session and at the end of the session of 1917, by making me your presiding officer. This is an honor that very seldom comes to a young man of my years, and is more than appreciated by me. I feel, however, a little bit gloomy at this time, as I feel like a boy who is about to graduate, or is graduated from college. I feel that I have reached the zenith of my ambition in this legislative body. While I shall, if I live, be a member of the next session, I do not feel that I can ask of you any greater honors than you have bestowed upon me in the past. I appreciate more than words can tell this token of your affection and esteem that you have given me in the form of eight hundred dollars in United States Liberty Bonds, and I want to say to you that these bonds will be kept until the present prices of commodities are somewhat reduced and then, after due consultation with my recently acquired life pardner they shall be invested in some article that will be a life long reminder of every member of this body. I am glad, indeed, that you saw fit to give me this token in the shape that it is for, according to the thrift teachings of my Quaker ancestors, we should have even our money working and not have it idle, so these securities during the time that they are held, in the time in which we are now, will bear interest at a good rate. This session has been a long one, it has been a tedious one, and while we are all glad in one way that it is over, there is that feeling of regret that we must part and sever our associations for the time being. I shall retire from Harrisburg for awhile and seek the seclusion that the hills of Bucks County offer, where I hope to enjoy my vacation, and I do hope that if any of you get in that vicinity, or in the vicinity of Philadelphia, that you will do me the honor of calling upon me. My latch string will always be out, and to you, Mr. President, I desire to express my sincere and heart-felt appreciation of your courteous treatment. You have been more than fair to me as your associate presiding officer and your courtesy is greatly appreciated. My friends, I thank you most sincerely for all that you have done for me on this occasion.

Mr. LEIBY. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, in contrast with the experience of the venerable and loveable Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Patton, my experience has been new in this legislative body. Ever since the first day that I took my seat in this distinguished body two years ago I have discovered new worlds, life has been to me a new vision, life has unfurled itself in a more positive and substantial way. Theories may be advanced as to the duty and responsibilities of man, but until man really touches the realities of life in some positive and useful form, such as this body affords, he can never appreciate or fully realize what that service and devotion to man and mankind means. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, it has been my great privilege during my two sessions in this body to serve on that committee which is perhaps acknowledged by everyone of you as the hardest working committee in this body, the Judiciary General, that committee to which all legislation is referred that has to do with the practice and procedure in our courts, to the altering of laws, to the amending and placing upon the statute books of new and useful legislation and, it is in the quite confines of that committee where much of the actual work of this Senate is done, and from that body comes to this Senate the finished product of the members of that committee. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, during the past session of this Legislature that committee has met every appointed time, and, as the Chairman so proudly said to me at its last meeting, on Tuesday morning of this week, there were present, I believe, seventeen of its nineteen members. That committee this year has been presided over by a member of this body, whose treatment, and decisions have been so fair, so uniformly just, his demeanor to each one so courteous, that he has endeared himself to the members of that committee, and friendships and associations have been formed there that as the scarlet thread that runs through the robe that the English make to denote and mark it is the product of that nation, it seems to us that the friendship which has run through and permeated everything that pertains to that committee, and that great thread stands out as the mark of friendship that shall go down with us as a lasting remembrance of the pleasant memories that have come to us with these associations. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, as befitting this presiding officer for his high and splendid service, as a small token of his fairness, justice and good will that he has manifested towards each one of us, never were we throttled in our free speech, never were we interfered with in the expression of what we believed was for the best interest of this great commonwealth, but with a demeanor of kindness and love, with a feeling of the greatest courtesy, never forgetting the great responsibility of his office, did he conduct himself toward us, and this high regard and this great respect and this great tribute of love and affection that we have for him, is nothing that we of our own wish bestow, but it is in response to this fairness which he has exhibited, and Mr. President and members of the Senate, in the name of each member of this Senate it is my great pleasure and particular honor at this time, in your name, to present to the gentlemen from Potter, the Honorable Frank E. Baldwin, this traveling bag and this watch, with the hope that they may be received in the splendid spirit in which they are given.

Mr. F. E. BALDWIN. Mr. President, and fellow Senators: I wish that I had the ability to express my appreciation of the feeling that Senator Leiby has expressed of the Members of the Judiciary Committee, but I have no.t I need only say that if that committee has been efficient and accomplished anything, that the credit is due to the members of that committee. They are the ones that made it efficient, it was their team work and co-operation. It has been said that at our last meeting we had seventeen of the nineteen members in attendance. It is true, and at every meeting of that committee there were seldom more than two or three absent. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate upon the part of that committee that splendid co-operation and help. We have perhaps considered three hundred or more bills and as Senator Leiby said, they have been considered in the spirit of fairness and the best interest of the Commonwealth at all times. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, much as I might appreciate these splendid gifts that the members of this committee presented to me, I want to say that I appreciate very much more the fact of being deserving of their respect and their esteem. I have learned to know the boys of that committee perhaps more intimately than I could under other circumstances and I never saw fellows that worked on a subcommittee or in committee of the whole and I am proud and honored in the fact that I was privileged at this session to be chairman of the Judiciary General Committee and I thank the members of that committee most sincerely for these beautiful gifts.

PRESENTATION OF GAVEL TO HON. CLARENCE J. BUCKMAN.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I want you all at this time, if you will, to recall that we have as a Chief Clerk a man by the name of Gallagher. Whether the millenium has arrived or whether the miracle man is just hovering around here at this time I do not know, but it strikes me as a peculiar condition when a first class Irishman will hand over a mallet to a Quaker, and that is what is going to happen now. It has never been my experience to know of a good old "Mickey a handing that over to anybody else if he had a chance to handle it, but that is going to happen now." But this seems to be the day of the Quaker. If I am not wrong in my date in 1682 William Penn came upon this soil and did business in a substantial and successful way with a bunch of Indians, and lo, and behold! in 1919 a Quaker from the little county of Bucks gets on this floor and does business successfully with a lot of political Indians. So the day of the Quaker is at hand. This Quaker of our day has done business with the big chief of the political Indians of Pennsylvania in the Honorable William E. Crow. He has done the business, I know, to the satisfaction of the big chief. He has done business with the local political Indians representing their particular districts in the Honorable Max Leslie, of Pittsburgh, and the Honorable Edwin H. Vare, of Philadelphia; and wifh these two smaller chiefs he has been successful; so that some of the traditions of our forefathers certainly must have come down into the life of our present Quaker chief, and in these days, day of revolution, days of new conditions, days of changes of all sorts, it is going to be my pleasure to hand this gavel over to him to take down to his little Quaker Inn, in the home where he resides, wherein he has that new bride. But before I present this to him I want to remind him that the day of suffrage is at hand. The handling of the mallet in his own home is not one hundred per cent. the right of a man and before he has a proper legitimate and good contract drawn up by a good lawyer insofar as the conduct of that Quaker Inn, in his own county, is concerned, to keep his hand on this mallet, because if he does not he is not going to lose fifty per cent. of authority, but ninety-nine per cent. and the day that Irishman handed this mallet over to him will be a sorrowful day in his experience.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, Mr. Gallagher and my friends of the Senate, things seem to be coming my way to-day, perhaps they may never again come my way to the extent that they have come to-day. My friend, the Senator from Philadelphia, has seen fit to refer to me as a Quaker, and I am proud of that fact that I do come from Quaker extraction. Mr. President, on Tuesday night in this Chamber I was more than proud to stand upon the platform which you now occupy, along with two other Quakers, the Attorney General of the United States and the Governor of this Commonwealth. In accepting this symbol of the authority which I am about to relinquish, I want to say to the Chief Clerk, to the Secretary of this Senate to all of the officers of this body that they have been more than kind, more than courteous to me, and as I said to the members of the Senate a few minutes ago, there has never been a word, there has never been friction of any kind, between me, either as your presiding officer or as a senator on the floor, and any officer or employee of this body. Senator Salus, I shall heed the admonition which you have given to me and I can only express the hope that my relations in my home in Bucks County shall be forever, or so long as I shall live, as cordial and as free from anything that is unpleasant as they have in the Senate of Pennsylvania.

PRESENTATION OF TOKEN TO MR. ARTHUR P. TOWNSEND, CLERK TO APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, there has been allotted to me a somewhat unusual duty, in fact I think if we were to have an expression from the Dean of the Senate, Senator Crow, he would say to you it is the first time in the history of the Senate of Pennsylvania, that on the floor of the Senate a gift was bestowed upon any person except a member of the Senate. I have listened to the remarks of the eminent Speaker when he was addressing us a few minutes ago, when he said "Good things appear to be coming my way." In answer to him I will say that good things come from Bucks County to us and no one better knows that than myself. When I had the honor to be appointed Chairman of the Appropriations Committee by you, sir, there were many applicants for position as clerk and many people were bringing political pressure to bear. In spite of that, in looking around, after the number of years I have been here, my mind went back to one man, whom I recognized for ability, for honesty, and for integrity, and above all that, a man who was loyal. With money a man can buy service, but all the money he may possess cannot buy loyalty. And so, sir, on behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, I desire to give to the Clerk of the Appropriations Committee, Mr. Arthur P. Townsend, this gift, and in giving it to him, I want to assure him that with this piece of paper goes the love, and heartfelt sympathy of human kindness from every man in the Senate. The check is made out to the order of Mrs. Arthur P. Townsend and whatever he sees fit to get in his home with this little gift may he look back and realize the fact that in spite of the duties of the Senators in this Chamber we do not and never shall forget the loyal service he rendered to us.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair accords the privilege of the floor to Mr. Townsend to express his appreciation to the members of the Appropriations Committee.

Mr. TOWNSEND. Mr. President, and Senator Daix, and members of the Senate of Pennsylvania, after hearing all these kind words from Senator Daix I am so embarressed that I can scarcely say just what is in my heart, but I assure each one of you that I do deeply appreciate all the kindnesses and courtesies that you have extended to me during the past session. I felt highly honored at the beginning of this session when my good friend, Senator Daix, asked me to come from Bucks County to assist him in his duties as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and I have endeavored to do my duty. In conclusion, I wish to say that with this check my good wife and myself will endeavor to purchase some article that can be placed in our home, where we may daily be reminded of all of you good men, the Senators from Pennsylvania, who have been so kind and courteous to me, I thank you.

Mr. F. E. BALDWIN. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I appreciate the high honor that you have conferred upon me more than I can express. There is no Senator upon this floor but would realize that it is a high compliment to be elected as the presiding officer of this Senate. The Senate of Pennsylvania in my mind is one of the most ideal legislative bodies that can be found. Probably no other, except perhaps the United States Senate, compares with it in my judgment. I am proud to be a member of the Senate of Pennsylvania and associated with you Senators who, to my mind, are the best fellows in this world. I am especially proud to be a member of the Senate at this time and its presiding officer, when we have as the Executive Officer of this Commonwealth, Governor Sproul, selected from the Senate of Pennsylvania, and when we have Eddie Beidleman, our Eddie, another Senator, as Lieutenant-Governor. To be associated with them and with you, my fellow Senators, in the matter of legislation and socially, is in itself a high honor and privilege. If I shall be returned to this Senate and be permitted to preside over it I shall endeavor to do so with impartiality and with fairness, and to so demean myself that you my fellow Senators may not have cause for regret in the selection of the President Pro Tempore which you have made today. I appreciate deeply that I have been used splendidly by my fellow Senators and I want to express again my deep gratitude and appreciation, and to assure you of my appreciation, my love and my most kindly feeling towards each of you.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO THE HONORABLE AUGUSTUS F. DAIX.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I approach the falling of the gavel of the session of 1919 with a mingled feeling of joy and sorrow. Joy because I will be restored this evening to my home and family, sorrow because in order to do that I am compelled to leave this fellowship and companionship that in the last four years has grown very near and dear to me. I want to take this occasion to thank each member of this Senate, each member of the General Assembly, as well as the officers and employes of this Senate, for the kind, courteous, and considerate treatment afforded me upon every occasion. I feel sad at parting with an administration that I regard as the best State administration that has ever prevailed in the State of Pennsylvania, presided over by a fellow member of this body in the person of the Honorable William C. Sproul. And I feel equally sad in parting with the Lieutenant-Governor of this Commonwealth, who has been so kind, courteous and considerate to every member of this body. I feel the same sadness when I think of my separation from the Cabinet, brought about by the present Governor of this Commonwealth, all of whom have been so courteous to me and so gracious to the entire body of the General Assembly of the State. It is my honor, however, to have been selected on behalf of this Senate to present to one of the most beloved members of this body a slight token of fellowship and love and appreciation. That member has had heaped upon him the most honerous duties of any chairman of this body. He has performed these duties in a way that has given general satisfaction to every member of this Senate. It is true perhaps that he has not been able to give to every individual Senator all the appropriation that he would like to have for the district which he represents, but every Senator in this body realized and appreciates that his decisions have always been just, fair and equitable. More than that could never have been asked for. In addition to that, no Senator has ever gone to him to inquire about a bill before his committee that he has not received from him the most courteous treatment and the information that he possessed relative to that bill. Senator Daix, I desire to say to you, and in saying this to you I know that I voice the feeling of every member of your committee and of every member of this Senate, because a just appreciation is in the breast and memory of every member of this body for the treatment that you have accorded him, and it is regretful to us to part with you, but in parting with you we want you to take with you this chest of silver that you may enjoy with your family and we hope that some time we may be able to visit you and around the festive board use this silver. On behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, I present to you this chest of silver.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, I approach these few remarks with a great deal of diffidence. After presenting the token to the Clerk of the Appropriations Committee this morning on behalf of the Committee and then to turn around and be the recipient of such a beautiful gift as this, is enough to stun any man for a moment and I want to say this to you, gentlemen of the Senate, that we must stop and think, that while it is very kind, the eulogistic terms in which the Senator has spoken of me, that this is a broad enough matter to take in every man within the scope of my voice. I say for the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that there was never one time that his door was shut, in fact the order was given that should at any time the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee appear he was to be immediately ushered into the Governor's presence for the purpose of taking up matters of appropriations. I will also say in addition, that the Lieutenant-Governor of the Commonwealth, the presiding officer of this session this morning, has also been very kind in assisting me, and while the former President Pro Tempore will shake his head and say he played no part in it, he frequently left his seat and if it was only a suggestion, to say "Gus, if you don't mind doing this I think it will be better to do it." It is a suggestion that came from him, and in addition I had the able help of McCaig and his clerk in the House, and you gentlemen of the Appropriations Committee, embracing as it does every man in the Senate of Pennsylvania, you were able to give me your assistance in bringing out the appropriations. So after all, when you get down to the heart of the matter, Daix was Chairman, but he could not have gotten away with it if it had not been for the assistance he received from the various members of the Senate and the various officials. We have heard a great deal this morning about the parting of the ways, about the time having come almost when the curtains would roll down. Well, if the curtain is about to be rung down, in taking this gift I can only say in the course of time silver may become tarnished, any article may become tarnished, in course of time we all will pass away. The greatest thing that man has in the life he possesses and the memory that he carries with it to the end. So let the silver be tarnished and let the hand shake and if nothing else exists but one mind we can go down saying that we have in memory that which this gift typifies. And so last night after all the jollity of the occasion and all the splendor, when the Chaplain delivered the Lord's Prayer, in one instance every man's head was bowed as those words were spoken in the Lord's Prayer, "Thy kingdom come." I say to you that where e'er we are, whether we meet here again or some other place on the highways or byways, wherever it may be until Thy Kingdom come, I say to you God speed, and I thank you. God bless every one of you.

PRAYER BY THE CHAPLAIN, REV. THOMAS W. DAVIS.

The PRESIDENT. Before adjournment I will ask the Chaplain of the Senate to pronounce the Benediction.

Almighty God we thank Thee for the splendid spirit that prevailed here and we come to the closing minutes of this session we thank Thee for the lives of the members of this Senate, for the employes of this body. We thank Thee for the spirit of fairness that characterized the big broad minded men who have been chosen by the people to represent them in this legislative body. We pray that as we depart from each other to our several homes it may be with the fixed resolution in our minds to maks every correction in our lives that is necessary and that we have learned by experience it will be a good thing to make. And grant that we may cherish more than ever the formation of those ties of fellowship that we now after some months of contact with each other appreciate so very much. God bless all the members of this body and their families and the employes and their families. We ask Thy blessing upon His Excellency, the Governor, his family and associates, Thy blessing upon the Lieutenant-Governor and his family and grant that in the days that are yet to come we may be in deep reverence to him and with the high ideals of human brotherhood before us may we be able to do unto others at all times as we would have others do unto us.

When we asunder part
It gives us inward pain.
But we shall still be joined in heart
And hope to meet again. Amen.

ADJOURNMENT SINE DIE.

The PRESIDENT. This being the day and hour fixed by concurrent resolution for the final adjournment, and the hour of twelve o'clock noon having arrived. I hereby declare the Senate adjourned sine die.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, June 26, 1919.

The House met at 1.30 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (Robert S. Spangler) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. H. Feldmann, offered the following prayer:

O our Heavenly Father, we have come to the parting and the closing day. Only Thyself knowest how we have been and what we have done. There must come before the minds of those who stood before this bar and swore to be true to the State, to their Commonwealth and to their communities—they alone and Thou knowest—how this vow has been carried out. They may not have been infallible, but we trust that they have been unfaltering. If, through the course of heated debate, there has been estrangement among these men, grant that no one may leave this House until the misunderstanding between them has been cleared and has welded them in deeper friendship; and as they part from this place, may each one carry a memory that shall be a bright, sunshiny spot, and may each one seek to profit by that which the other has given; and as we go away and wander o'er moor and fen or crag, grant that at last we may all be gathered in the Great Assembly through Him who loved us with his blood. Amen.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the Report of the Committee of Conference?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. Ramsey).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. Ramsey) permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I have not had time to thoroughly analyze this bill. I would like to know how the amount that each disrict will be refunded will compare with the refund under the act under which we are now operating? As I understand it, this bill repeals the act which refunds to the school district a certain amount of money. How, now, will the amount of the refund under this bill compare with the refund received by the districts heretofore?

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, in Section 3, on page 9 of this act, you will find the section which carries the appropriation necessary to put the act into effect. The present act repeals the old system of contributing State aid to the school districts under the minimum salary, and for the purpose of carrying this act into effect it is necessary to have about $10,000,000. For that purpose an appropriation was made of $6,000,000. The provision of the refund which would return, due to the repeal of the old system, approximately $4,500,000, is now appropriated in the regular school appropriation. In order that that amount of money which would be refunded, owing to the repeal of that system, we have added to this act the clause following, beginning and in lieu of the sum heretofore paid by the Commonwealth from the General Appropriation, for the support of the Public Schools, the sum of $4,500,000 of the sum appropriated by the General Assembly of one thousand nine hundred and nineteen for the support of the public schools or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby specifically set apart out of said appropriaion for the payment of the Commonwealth's share of the salaries and increases herein provided for." The amount paid for by the State is therefore all in this act taking $6,000,000 of the new appropriation and adding the refund, which comes from the repeal of the old system, of $4,500,000, and we have enough money to put into force the provisions of this act as the State's share for the payment of school teachers' salaries under this act. Is that what the genleman desires to know.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. Ramsey).

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know, from the gentleman from Delaware, whether there is made any other change in this bill than that concerning provisional certificates. Under the old bill a teacher that held a provisional certificate was granted a refund of five dollars from the State. This bill provides for a refund of ten dollars. Has there been any other change made in the bill by the Conference Committee than that one provision?

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, concerning the certificate salaries, no. That was done to assist the rural school districts in the payment of their provisional certificates. We raised the sum there for the purely rural school districts from five dollars to ten dollars and all others holding provisional certificates remain at five dollars from the State. As we gathered, there are 8,100 school teachers holding provisional certificates; more than one-half are in the cities of the Commonwealth and we felt that the cities of the Commonwealth could stand the burden better than the rural districts, and we have added five dollars of the State's aid to the purely rural school districts in order to help those districts which are the weakest.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I want to ask the gentleman, is it not a fact that the bill provides for a refund of fifty per centum of the increase in districts of the first-class, and varying amounts in districts of the second, third and fourth classes.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, it provides the increase of fifty-fifty of all salaries over and above the minimum. As compared with your first section, beginning with line 8 of page 5, you will find where the per centum operates and that per centum in all districts of the State carries a fifty-fifty share, whether it be second, third or fourth class districts. When the bill was first drawn, it applied to second, third and fourth class districts, but later first class districts were added and the latter part of the act applies to first class districts. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: I have only this to say to the members: The Conference Committee on this bill have worked nearly all day in connection and in conjunction with the Superintended of Public Instruction, Dr. Finnegan, and the Governor of the Commonwealth, William C. Sproul, and this is the final conclusion of the work of the Conference Committee with the approval of Dr. Finnegan and the Governor. They are the best conditions which the General Assembly at this time can get for the increase of the salaries of the school teachers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I trust that each member here will realize that and that he will vote for this bill and give the teachers the best that the State can do, under the opinion of our Governor, William C. Sproul.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I think I voice the sentiments of the men who come from the country districts that we feel and want the teachers of this State to be better paid; yet we feel that we would like to be refunded an amount equal to what we have been entitled to under the old system. We don't believe that the entire increase in cost of salaries should be placed upon the districts. I have reference now to the rural districts. I have been informed that under the old bill a great many of the districts throughout the State would be receiving less from the State under the bill that had been proposed before the Conference Committee went out than they did under the old act. If this is the case, it is hardly fair to these districts that they should be given less and at the same time the salaries of the teachers are increased. We want salaries of the teachers increased, but we feel that the State should pay its proportionate share in those districts. There are some districts that are heavily loaded with taxation, and it would be a great burden on those districts to be compelled to pay this increase out of their own treasuries. As I said the other day when I opposed Mr. Alexander's bill increasing the salaries of the judges, I was hopeful that some way could be devised whereby the State Treasury would be full enough and we could draw enough to take care of the teachers' salaries. I am not satisfied as to the practical effect of this bill, and I see no reason why we could not have a little more time to discuss it and study it and then act upon it. If it is the will of this House to consider these points, and it is not our intention to adjourn until 12:00 o'clock noon today, I see no reason why this matter could not be laid aside for a time to study and work out as it applies to our own districts, and then we can intelligently vote upon it. I have not looked over the entire bill, and I cannot vote intelligently upon it under these conditions. I doubt whether the Conference Committee or any of the men working with it have been able to apply the principals of this bill practically to the districts of the State, and for that reason I would like to have action upon it postponed until we can study it a little bit further.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I think the statement of the gentleman from Union (Mr. Showalter) is correct. According to this bill, many of the rural districts will get less money than they got heretofore. The result is that as far as this increase is concerned, under this bill, the rural districts, in many cases, will get less money than they did under the former law. The consequence is that the entire burden of the increase will fall on the local districts, that is will fall on local taxation. Not only will the entire burden of this increase fall on them, but there is an addition of about five dollars a month which will fall upon them besides. Under the old act, in counties like Berks we paid about thirty-five dollars in 1906. The State has been taking care of the sum between thirty-five dollars and sixty dollars, in the case of permanent or normal diplomas. In other words, we received from the State twenty-five dollars a month on each teacher holding a permanent normal school diploma. Under this bill we would receive only twenty dollars or five dollars less than we received heretofore. The result of that will be that we will have to go home to our constituents and tell them that we have less money from the State than we had heretofore and that the entire burden of all this increase will fall upon the rural districts themselves. I think it will make it difficult for every member who represents a rural district to go back home and explain to his constituents that this appropriation has been increased from something like $2,000,000 to $4,500,000, and yet we are compelled to go back and say to them that we have less money for them than heretofore. I think it will place every member from a rural district in a very, very embarrassing position if we have to go back home with this bill in the shape it is now in because it will be difficult to explain to our constituents why we come home with less money than heretofore when nearly three million dollars a year has been added to the appropriation. I think something should be done in order to straighten out this matter so that the rural districts will get at least as much if not more than they received heretofore. This, to my mind, is a step backward for the rural districts. It is all right for the teachers, but it is not all right for the taxpayers. We are here to represent the taxpayers as well as the teachers, and I feel that something should be done by the members of this House with this bill and that it should not be passed in its present form.

Mr. HARER. Mr. Speaker, we have been here for six months trying to find some way to raise the teachers' salaries. Our Governor and State Superintendent of Public Schools have figured it that this it the best bill that we can get at the present time. Gentlemen, it is this bill or nothing. The House must decide. It is too late to go any farther. This Conference Report cannot be amended and it must be accepted as it is or give the teachers nothing. Now what are you going to do?

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I realize that the gentleman from Elk (Mr. Flynn) has made a special study of this matter from the standpoint of the strictly rural districts and I would like to interrogate him.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Elk (Mr. Flynn) permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman from Elk (Mr. Flynn) to explain whether or not the strictly rural districts will benefit by the provisions of this bill, especially relative to the fourth class districts.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I would say that every effort has been made in framing this bill to benefit the rural districts. Under the provisions of the bill, as now drawn, they have been given several advantages over the city districts or over districts of the first class, so that when the bill is finally figured you will find that the provisions are equitable and almost without exception will take care of the increases provided by the increased minimum so that no district will suffer. It is true that in some districts in the State the salaries paid before the enactment of the present law provided for the State paying the difference between the minimum salary and the amount formerly paid—that some districts received more than their just share of State funds. This bill in such districts provides a more equitable distribution of the fund, but figured out from the standpoint of a county like my own, where we have townships that are poor, where they have nothing but stripped lands to assess, I find that there is only one district in my county that will not be paid the full amount provided for by the increased minimums in this bill. That same condition will prevail in every county in the State for the reason that the very character of those districts, the very character of the assessable lands in those districts, is such that there would be no county that can be more adversely affected by the provisions of this bill. I think in that one township I mention the deficit would be less than two hundred dollars a year.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Elk.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman, taking as a concrete example; for instance, a township that during the last school year paid $60 a month to its teachers, what would be the result of this bill as applicable to that township with provisional certificates?

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, of course, all those figures depend upon several conditions. For instance, it would depend largely upon the class of the certificates of the teachers in that district. No answer that I could give would cover every situation.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, provisional certificates I refer to.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I would say that the increase of the minimum provided by this bill would be adequately taken care of by the appropriations to that district. I think, almost without exception, that this is the case. There are a few townships or districts that perhaps, because of the fact that they paid low salaries in the past, will not be benefited to the extent of paying the full amount of the increase provided in the bill, but you will find that those districts are few and far between. Mr. Speaker, the members of the Conference Committee have gone into this question very thoroughly and have tried to work it out as best it can be worked out. There are so many varying conditions over the State that I would not undertake to say that this bill will cover the requirements of every school district in the State, but I do say this, that we have tried to provide for those districts that are most needy by distributing the ten dollars formerly provided in the Woodruff bill so the district would receive five dollars of that amount and the teacher five dollars. That applies only to the rural districts. That is the one provision that favors the rural districts as against the city districts. I will promise the members of this House that if they will read the provisions of the bill carefully and compute it, they will find that it is the very best that can be done under all the circumstances. If you wish to increase the salaries of the teachers as provided in this act, you have before you the best thought of the Governor of the Commonwealth, of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, of the committee of teachers who have been here all session working in the interest of the bill, and all the members of your Conference Committee and that of the Senate; and I feel safe in saying to you that you will make no mistake in passing this bill at this time providing you wish to grant to the teachers the increase provided for in this bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recorded "present."

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recorded as not voting.

PRESENT AND NOT VOTING.

Showalter, Williams.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the report of the Committee of Conference adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. WOODRUFF. Mr. Speaker, the reasons for my vote on House Bill No. 703, are as follows:

This bill was presented in the interests of popular education at the request of many educators and public-spirited citizens. As it was passed by the House of Representatives it was generally pronounced to be an ideal measure. As amended afterward in the Senate it seemed not to meet the approval of many House members, many provisions having been changed. As sponsor for the bill, having done all I could to restore vital features in the House and Senate conference committee and having to a degree succeeded, the result of the conference committee having been laid before the House, I feel it my duty to vote for the bill for the following reasons:

1. Because it is a very unusual procedure for the Sponsor of a bill to vote against a measure that he has labored for even though it embodies ideas that he does not himself approve when it is the universal opinion that such a measure should pass in some kind of form.

2. Because it had the support and final word in conference committee of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Governor of the Commonwealth, both of whom are in position to understand the subject in its larger aspects.

3. Because I have all along keenly felt that the cause of education, which is vital to the best interests of free government and which is the real antidote to Bolshevism and many other evils that menace our republican institutions, would suffer seriously by failure to enact into law a teachers' salary measure at this time.

4. Because I realize that upon the proper education and molding of the character of the American child depends the answer whether Western civilization shall advance or retrograde and that the best character builders obtainable are none too good for the children of the great State of Pennsylvania.

5. And finally because, should this measure work a hardship to taxpayers in rural districts, as I apprehend it may, I am assured by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Governor of the Commonwealth, that corrective measures will be forth-coming in the next Session of the Legislature.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. COMERER. Mr. Speaker, there is no measure that that has been considered by this Legislature that has given me more concern than the one giving the teachers of our schools an increase, as I think they should have it and I regret very much that I cannot concur in the report of the Conference Committee on this bill.

It will affect Fulton County as much, if not more, than any other county in the Commonwealth. In some townships they may have to forfeit their appropriation, if cannot meet the requirements of this bill.

I voted in favor of the bill as it left the House and hoped to do so on final passage, but owing to the provisions as they now are, it will work a great hardship on the county I represent, therefore will have to vote no.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the report of the Committee of Conference adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, my attitude on this Teachers' Salary Bill that we just voted on was not to oppose it. I simply wanted to inform myself sufficiently that I could vote intelligently on it. I did not feel that we fairly understood the provisions of the bill as to how it would apply to the rural districts, and for that reason, I refused to vote.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Speaker, I would kindly ask the privilege of the floor for just a word on a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. Speaker, I think there is a mistaken idea in the minds of some of the members here, and they have got a city bill and a district bill confused with the Teachers' Salary Bill, and it is most unfortunate that we are getting these districts tied up with the Teachers' Salary Bill. There is an amount of six million dollars plus to go to the teachers, not the cities or districts. It is primarily, by its title, a teachers' bill, and it is unfortunate that this six million dollars plus increase of salary, for which it is intended, should not be voted unanimously and get two years' trial. I cannot understand, for the life of me, where districts or cities or counties enter into the thing. Again stating it is primarily a teachers' increase bill——

The SPEAKER. The Chair will inform the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Bennett) that the bill has already been passed. The question of discussing the bill at this time is not under consideration.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I move you that the gentleman's remarks be striken from the record.

Mr. WILLIAM DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whose remarks the gentleman from Lawrence wishes expunged.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Bennett).

Mr. JAMES A. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, may I say in opposition to this motion that I came in a moment ago to the hall of this House and heard the concluding remarks of the gentleman from Union (Mr. Showalter), discussing, as I understood, his vote on House Bill No. 703. Now, then, sir, if the remarks of the gentleman from Union (Mr. Showalter) were relevant on the bill after having been passed, it strikes me that the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Bennett), under a question of personal privilege, should not be expunged, and I think the House should oppose the motion.

Mr. ROBERT L. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, my object in making that motion was for the reason that I did not think the gentleman's remarks were to a question of personal privilege, and had some reflection on the members who did not vote.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

RECESS.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the Speaker will declare a recess until 10:30 o'clock this morning.

INTRODUCTION OF GOVERNOR SPROUL.

The SPEAKER. His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, is now with us and will address the General Assembly. (Applause).

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR BEIDLEMAN. Members of the General Assembly, the distinguished Pennsylvanian who will address you now requires no introduction. In fact, there are no words that could be found by me that could adequately express the appreciation which not only the members of the General Assembly but Pennsylvania at large feel for him. I take very great pleasure in introducing to you at this time—I recall "Introducing" and say presenting—the Honorable William C. Sproul, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, who will now address you. (Applause).

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR SPROUL.

GOVERNOR WILLIAM C. SPROUL. Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives: When the committee came over in the usual way and asked me if I had any further communications that I desired to send to the Legislature, I said that I had no further official communications, as I believed that all of our business was done, but that I would be glad of an opportunity to present a personal communication of thanks and satisfaction to the members of the Legislature of 1919, for the splendid co-operation which they have given the Administration, and the excellent record which they have placed before their constituency, the people of the Commonwealth.

I have been in doubt sometimes, especially within the last few days, as to whether long experience and intimate association with the other folk in charge of the Government, are altogether an advantage to the incumbent of the office of Chief Executive. I was sure, at the beginning of the session, that such an experience was an advantage, because it ought to give the man some knowledge of the problems which are liable to come up to him for adjustment and decision. I want to say to you that I believe the man who has had such an experience as I have had, and who has had such a long and intimate acquaintanceship with so many of those connected with him in the Government is more liable to be pulled, and hauled, and rolled about a little more than a stranger might be; but I guess this is an advantage, at least I feel it is, although it is hard sometimes not to do all of the things which your old associates want you to do, and be forced sometimes to make decisions not entirely agreeable to them. If I have had to do those things sometimes, it was not because of any lack of desire in my heart to meet your wishes, but it was because whatever judgment I might have had and information which was at hand compelled me to act in another way. You have been fine, patient and loyal in the support and encouragement and all the essential things which I have had to accomplish this year, and I want you to understand that I appreciate it thoroughly and completely. (Applause).

It occurred to me this morning, in looking over the principal achievements of this Legislature, that the men who have constituted these two bodies which make up the General Assembly of 1919 may go home with the assurance that no Legislature within a generation has accomplished so many important and outstanding matters of public importance as have been enacted by this Legislature. (Applause.)

There are at least half-dozen things upon the records of this session, any one of which would have made the session of the Legislature notable. You have passed two amendments to the Constitution of the United States, both of them matters of the utmost importance and of great moment in the fundimental law of the country. You have passed a Charter Bill for the State's principal municipality, which I believe, is a great piece of legislation, and that which will bring to that city the opportunity to continue on its way of progress, and to organize a government, at once simple, concrete and effective.

You have passed humanitarian legislation this year, two items of which stand out prominently—the Compensation Law, which places this State in the van, as far as legislation of that kind is concerned, and the Rehabilitation Bill to take care of those who have been injured in our industries and in our war—which is far in advance of anything undertaken anywhere else. You have also increased the appropriations to the charitable institutions and philanthropic organizations of the State, matters of great importance to the people and which will go to put Pennsylvania even farther ahead in charitable work. And I want to say right now that there is no State in the Union, or any country in the world that I know of, that ever did or that does anything like as much as Pennsylvania does now for the unfortunate. (Applause.) You have passed legislation which has made possible and which has enabled us to inaugurate the most comprehensive plan of internal public improvements that has ever been undertaken in any State at one time in this Union or in any other country, and that is your road program. You have provided means by which other great public improvements, such as the Delaware River Bridge, these improvements to the Capitol grounds, improvements to the various State institutions, the building of bridges throughout the State, and other things may now be gone ahead with in a way which will give employment to our people, and which will provide for them, which will help to make Pennsylvania a good place in which to live. You have provided for the reorganization of the Department of Agriculture, the simplification and systemization of the Department over there so that we may get the best results for our agricultural population, and that means very important results also for those who depend upon Pennsylvania food in the Pennsylvania markets. You have provided for the reorganization of the Banking Department and made it absolutely self-supporting. You have provided for the reorganization of the Department of Public Education and have enabled us to call here men who will place this Department and the public schools of Pennsylvania up where they belong, No. 1 among all the States in the Union (Applause); and you have made the largest appropriation for the increase in the salaries of those underpaid, faithful, devoted and necessary public servents, our public school teachers. (Applause.)

You have provided for a commission to study the question of the revision of the State Constitution. For a long time I have been convinced that our State Constitution has been a code of limiations rather than of rights and that this great State, with its wonderfully diversified interests, its remarkable industrial population and great development, needs a new instrument which will more truly represent the spirit of the times and the desires of the people of Pennsylvania. I propose to appoint upon that commission, for which you have given me the authority, the best minds in this State, representatives of all the elements which go to make up this great population. You have provided for an Art Commission; you have provided for preference in our public service for the soldiers and sailors returned from the country's conflict; you have provided for the geological survey and you have provided one hundred or more other things equally essential and important. So,

I want you all to feel that this session, long drawn out—some people have considered it, but it was not so much longer than the other sessions, one day shorter than the session of 1913 and two days shorter than the session of 1917, and several days shorter than other sessions in which I have participated—but we have to make up our minds here in Pennsylvania that you cannot crystalize public opinion in affairs so important as the affairs of this great Commonwealth, with more than twice as many people and more than five times as much wealth as this nation had when Thomas Jefferson was elected President of the United States; and you cannot crystalize sentiments on important questions like that in a few hours, a few days or even a few weeks. That is one reason why I saw fit to give my approval gladly to the proposition to increase the salaries of the members of the Legislature so that they shall not be compelled to make great private sacrifice in order to serve the people here. (Applause).

I want to congratulate you upon the work of the session, and I want to assure you of my own complete satisfaction and kindliness of feeling which I have for everybody here, and also to tell you that I expect to be here pretty constantly until the next session meets, and if there is anything at all that I can do to further your interests and to further the interests of the people whom you represent, I hope you will let me hear from you. Thank you. (Applause).

The SPEAKER. The Chair, on the part of the House, wishes to thank His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, for the complete resume of the great work performed by our present Legislature. I feel that we can thank him for his grand participation in the program of legislation that has been carried out by this Legislature, and the Legislature wishes the Governor God speed and prosperity during the rest of his term.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the motion.

The Clerk read the motion as follows:

Moved by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McCAIG, seconded by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. RAMSEY, that all derogatory remarks uttered by members of the General Assembly concerning members of the General Assembly during the session now closing be expunged from the records.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I am the last man in the House of Representatives to oppose a motion of this kind; but I believe that that motion should come from the man who made the remarks. I do not believe that we should attempt to expunge from the records something that has been said here unless we have authority from the man who said it to expunge it. I am absolutely opposed to this motion as it is.

The SPEAKER. The motion is a general motion, and a similar motion has been carried in the Senate. It relates to no particular person.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I believe the motion, if there is any merit in it, should be absolutely specific; but this is a general motion and covers everything that happened through the whole session.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, the simple fact that this resolution, or motion, covers general subjects during the entire session is the reason that it should be passed by the members of this House, and the idea of making it specific would be to single out any particular person who made remarks, or persons to whom those remarks were extended. There was an agreement, Mr. Speaker, that such a motion as this should be presented before the close of this session; and for that reason this motion is now made that all remarks of a derogatory character that have been made during the entire session against the members or concerning the members of this House should be expunged from the records. There is no harm in it, Mr. Speaker; it leaves a better taste upon the records of this House, now that the General Assembly has closed with such a glorious record as the Governor of the Commonwealth has just told you.

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: In presenting this motion, I have not done so with any other than good faith. I was asked last evening in the Senate if I would offer such a motion and I assure you, gentlemen of the House, in presenting this motion I did not do so to offend any member of this House. I assure you, sir, that in presenting this motion I did so in good faith, and I ask you to sustain this motion.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. McCaig).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. McCaig) permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Cox) will proceed.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny who shall be the judge of the expulsion from these records of what may be called derogatory remarks?

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I submit the question to the House.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman who shall judge as to what remarks during the session are derogatory? I now ask the gentleman to reply to my question.

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I take it that it will be the Chief Clerk and the Speaker of this House and, on the other side, I take it that it will be the President Pro Tempore and the Chief Clerk of the Senate or the reporters thereof.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I fail to see how the Senate can enter into a motion of this kind in the House; consequently, I fail to see how the Speaker or Chief Clerk can judge through this long session what remarks were or were not derogatory. I therefore think that the motion is absolutely wrong.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state that the Senate has passed a similar motion, acting for themselves.

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I would say again that the only reason that I presented this motion here today is because of an agreement that I understood had been made last evening in the Senate.

Mr. ALLAN D. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, we did not hear that motion read back here. May we have it read again?

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will again read the motion.

The Clerk then read the motion as follows:

Moved by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McCAIG, seconded by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. RAMSEY, that all derogatory remarks uttered by members of the General Assembly concerning members of the General Assembly during the session now closing be expunged from the records.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

SPEAKER THANKS HOUSE.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to thank the members of the House for the co-operation and the courtesies and the kindnesses that all of the members of the House have shown to the Speaker. He feels grateful to all the members of the House for their kindness, courtesy and good-feeling, and wishes them prosperity and happiness in the future.

ADJOURNMENT.

The SPEAKER. This being the day set for the final adjournment of the session of the General Assembly of one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and the hour of twelve o'clock noon having arrived, I now declare this House adjourned sine die.
